45,000 Koreans Homeless After Pusan Holocaust

New Blazes Today Quickly Extinguished

PUSAN, Korea (UP)—Three more fires broke out in this refugee-jammed city today, less than 24 hours after a wind-swept blaze gutted the heart of the city and left 45,000 homeless.

South Korean firefighting teams, on the alert after the worst fire in Korea's history, went into action quickly and had the new blazes under control within an hour.

Meanwhile, Allied authorities made emergency arrangements today to house and feed 45,000 Koreans left homeless by a 10-hour, $26,000,000 fire which was started by a family quarrel.

An American soldier and three Koreans were killed and 44 persons injured by the blaze that burned a mile-wide swath through Pusan Friday night and early today—the worst fire in Korea's history. The flames leveled 6,020 buildings, including the U.S. army's rear-area headquarters, an army chapel and 5,000 homes. Terrified refugees, temporarily evacuated to Yong Island, filtered back into the city today to see what they could salvage from the ashes of their homes.

The U.S. army's Korean civil assistance command made arrangements to house some 23,000 of the refugees in a former prison camp outside the city, and provided tents as temporary shelter for many others. Mayor Sohn Tong Soo said the fire started when a Korean couple, squabbling over some family problem, knocked a kerosene lantern to the straw-littered floor of their home.

B.C. Toll Authority May Get Gunderson

Finance Minister Einar Gunderson has been appointed to B.C.'s new toll highway and bridge authority, it was reliably reported today.

Mr. Gunderson himself declined to confirm or deny the report, but it is understood the appointment was made by order-in-council at a cabinet meeting Friday.

The appointment immediately developed new speculation as to the future of Mr. Gunderson who was defeated in the Victoria by-election by Liberal George F. Gregory.

Cabinet sources indicated a few weeks ago the toll authority would be made up of cabinet ministers. The cabinet has power to set the salary for the

These sources said no serious rift exists. Rather, they insisted, both Britain and the United States agree that the new Russian note calling for a Big Four conference in Berlin, on Germany, reflects no basic change in Soviet policy.

But the acceptance by Russia of the western invitation to such a conference, sources here said, does indicate a change in Russian tactics to the extent that they dropped unacceptable prior conditions that previously had blocked the way to a meeting.

For this reason, British leaders believe it is advisable to take up the Kremlin's offer immediately, before the Soviet leaders change their minds again.

BRITISH READY

The British government is ready, in principle, to hold the meeting with the Soviets and is even willing to go to Berlin, although it believes Switzerland would have been a better setting for such a conference. But officials here have as many doubts as the Americans of whether the conference, if it comes about, will lead anywhere.

They fear Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov will immediately try to entangle the western ministers in protracted negotiations on the agenda. The west will insist that Germany and Austria be dealt with first, as the most pressing and important issues.

CHURCHILL READY

LONDON (UP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill will go to Bermuda next week still hopeful that a top-level Big Four meeting can be arranged some time next year, it was reported today.

The Foreign Office said Sir Frank Roberts, a deputy under-secretary, will replace his junior, P. F. Hancock, on Prime Minister Churchill's team for the talks with President Eisenhower and Premier Laniel Friday.

Roberts has been Britain's chief representative at three power meetings of experts this year. He helped draft the Western note to Russia in the current exchanges.

His inclusion in the British delegation clearly indicates Russia's agreement Thursday to a four-power foreign ministers' conference will be a top item on the Bermuda agenda.

three to seven members of the authority, who don't have to be cabinet ministers. Anybody can be appointed.

The fact that Mr. Gunderson has been appointed opened two avenues of speculation. Either Premier Bennett plans to keep Mr. Gunderson as finance minister or he is giving Mr. Gunderson a permanent government post.

Premier Bennett and Mr. Gunderson have declined comment on the question of the minister's future, other than to say he will accompany other government representatives to Ottawa next month for talks with the federal government.

Mr. Gunderson again today declined comment on his future moves.

SHADES OF RALEIGH!

Negro Lays Coat In Path of Queen

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—A middle-aged Negro threw consternation into the entourage of Queen Elizabeth II Friday when he spread his coat on the ground and shouted, "step upon my coat."

A man in military uniform struck at the negro with his sword and a policeman grabbed him. He was booked by police for investigation. Police said he might be deranged. He gave the name of Warren Kidd.

The Queen, taken by surprise, jumped back. She then walked to one side to avoid stepping on the coat. This occurred just before the Queen embarked at Port Royal outside Kingston, for Panama. Wally Davis, photographer for The Miami Daily News, witnessed it from a balcony just above the Queen.

"The guy was doing a Sir Walter Raleigh as the Queen walked along and approached a slightly wet spot on the pavement of the military drill ground," Davis said.

HONORS CONFERRED
The Queen conferred honors on various persons, ranging from the colonial governor to a chauffeur, before leaving Jamaica Friday to continue her globe-girdling tour.

The Queen made Governor Sir Hugh Foot a knight commander of the Royal Victorian Order. Colonial Secretary Colville Deverell and Police Commissioner Reginald Michell were dubbed commanders of the same order, and the governor's private secretary, Miss Cora St. Aubyn, a member of the Royal Victorian Order.

A policeman who was in charge of a traffic guard during the Queen's three-day visit, and the chauffeur of the monarch's automobile received Royal Victorian medals, while the housekeeper of King's House where the Queen stayed received a gold brooch.

The Queen and her entourage sailed today toward the Panama Canal aboard the British liner Gothic. The royal party is due in the canal zone Sunday as guests of the United States and Panama.

Drowned Tot's Death Traced to Blows by Club

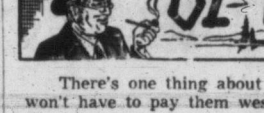

VANCOUVER (CP)—A four-year-old girl, drowned in a swollen ditch Thursday, was struck repeatedly on the head with a club, an autopsy showed Friday.

Police said the girl, Anne Mawdsley, apparently was hit by another child.

The blows were so heavy that any one of them would have rendered her unconscious, police said. Then the girl fell into the ditch and was drowned. The girl's body was discovered by her father, Gordon K. Mawdsley. Her assailant was unknown.

GOVERNMENT FIRM ABOUT GOUZENKO

Pearson Reiterates Determination; House Expected to Approve Govt. Moves

OTTAWA (BUP)—United States Senate spy investigators today faced a firm government decision that any questioning of former Soviet cipher clerk, Igor Gouzenko, will be under Canadian "ground rules."

External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson made that clear Friday night in a CBC "Press Conference" program that was televised in Canada and broadcast in both countries.

But whatever Sen. William Jenner's internal security subcommittee decides to do, he said, the mutual respect between the two nations was "too deep to be even weakened" by such an incident.

The "incident" started after Gouzenko was reported willing to talk to American investigators because he felt he could give them valuable "advice" on uncovering Soviet spies.

Five hundred members of the International Photo-Engravers Union (AFU), the men who make metal plates to reproduce pictures in the paper, walked out demanding higher pay and other benefits.

Their action was given force when some 20,000 members of other unions—reporters, printers, telephone operators—refused to cross picket lines and did not report for work.

The Herald Tribune was not affected because it has a contract with a commercial firm for its photo-engraving plants.

All the strike-bound newspapers were being picketed. The photo-engravers, who get $120 a week for day work and $131 for night work, have asked for a $15-a-week pay increase. They said the publishers had offered a $3.75 "package," including a pay increase, an additional holiday and an added welfare program contribution.

Radio and television stations reported that if the strike is prolonged they probably will expand their news coverage over the air.

Sizzling Finish Marks Classic; Score 12-6

SCORE BY QUARTERS

	1st	2nd	3rd	4th
Winnipeg	0	0	6	0
Hamilton	6	0	0	6

TORONTO (CP)—Hamilton Tiger-Cats fought off a desperate Winnipeg drive in the last minutes of the game to defeat the Blue Bombers 12-6 and win the Grey Cup before a tense sell-out 27,500 crowd today.

With the clock ticking off the last seconds of a spine-tingling battle, Blue Bombers marched down field from their own 18 on the strong right arm of Indian Jack Jacobs and seemed likely to tie the score.

They were on the Tiger-Cats four-yard line when Jacobs' pass was dropped by Tom Casey at the one-yard line. A pile of Tiger-Cat players jumped on the loose ball almost at the goal-line as the gun went to end the game.

JACOBS SCORES

It was a last frantic bid by the Bombers who fought an uphill battle after quarter Ed Songin of the Tiger-Cats went over for a first-quarter touchdown. Tiger-Cats held onto that lead until near the end of the third quarter when young Jerry James crashed over from the Hamilton one-yard line. Bud Korchak converted to tie the score and it was a new ball game.

Tiger-Cats struck right back and marched 91 yards for the winning touchdown, scored by Vito Ragazza on a pass from Songin. Tip Logan kicked his 82nd consecutive convert.

It was sweet revenge for the eastern Big Four champion club that lost to a Winnipeg Blue Bomber team in 1935. That victory 18 years ago was the first time a western Canada champion had come east to take the prized trophy and today was the first time since then that a Hamilton Big Four team had made the East-West final.

JACOBS STARS
Blue Bombers, sparked by the passing of Jacobs, had Tiger-Cats reeling in the dying moments.

The big Indian, the goat of the 1950 cup classic when Bombers lost 13-0 to Toronto Argonauts in the mud, reared back to fire pass-strikes to his ends. They came close but on the last play, with Bombers on the Hamilton four, Jacobs' hard pass was too much for Casey to hold. The game was played under ideal weather conditions.

SUMMARY

First quarter—1. Hamilton, touchdown (Songin); 2. Hamilton, convert (Logan).
Second quarter—Scoring: None.
Third quarter—3. Winnipeg, touchdown (James); 4. Winnipeg, convert (Korchak); 5. Hamilton, touchdown (Ragazza); 6. Hamilton, convert (Logan).
Fourth quarter—Scoring: None.

Two officials, umpire Harry Bowden of Toronto and judge-of-play Tommy Daley of Ottawa, inspected the field an hour before game time. "Just about perfect," said Daley. "It's just soft enough for good football."

Three Tiger-Cat fans outside the stadium had probably the most novel costume seen at a Grey Cup game since the hoopla started in 1948. They were dressed in long, winter underwear dyed yellow. On their backs were the names of Hamilton stars. They were happy-looking but really sad. They had no tickets.

Half an hour before the kick-off some tickets were being sold by scalpers at $30 to $40 apiece. One man frantically waved a $20 bill but couldn't get a ticket. But a well-dressed man sold two tickets on the 30-yard line at $6 each—the box-office price. "I'm no scalper," he said.

Grey Cup Sidelights

Bare-headed Lester B. (Mike) Pearson, external affairs minister, kicked off. The minister, a football player in his college days at the University of Toronto, kicked it only about six yards.

Robby MacDonald, 22-year-old Hamilton Tiger-Cat half-back and a victim of poliomyelitis early this season, was in a box almost directly behind his team-mates. The youngster lay in a stretcher with a nurse at his side.

Among the early arrivals was a black-coated Roman Catholic priest, wearing rubber overshoes painted the Hamilton vivid yellow and black and gloves of the same hue.

YEAR-ROUND FERRY FOR SIDNEY AIM

CPR Guarantees Summer Service

A fast, daily ferry service between Sidney and the mainland may be in the offing, according to a letter received by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

The CPR has the service under consideration, wrote vice-president W. H. Manson in a letter to chamber directors. He said one of the difficulties was that the Sidney harbor was for only one in the area suitable for CPR boats, but that it could not be used in the winter because of its exposed nature.

However, he said the CPR proposed to have a daily service between Sidney and the mainland next summer.

A letter from the Sidney chamber said it endorses anything the Victoria group can do to extend ferry services. The Sidney businessmen felt everything possible should be done to ensure that Gulf Island residents deal in Sidney and Victoria rather than Vancouver.

O'Neill, Famous U.S. Playwright Dead, 65

Won Nobel, Three Pulitzer Prizes During Career; in Seclusion for Past Two Years

BOSTON (UP)—Eugene O'Neill, renowned American playwright, died late Friday after suffering seven years with a disease which halted his literary production. He will be buried in a private ceremony as he wished.

O'Neill, 65, succumbed at the Back Bay hotel suite where he had lived in seclusion for the past two years. His physician, Dr. Richard L. Ohler, said death was caused by bronchial pneumonia.

The playwright, who made more than $1,000,000 with his literary productions left one unpublished play that must remain secret from the public for 25 years, according to a provision imposed by O'Neill. It was reported the play was so frank—and probably autobiographical—that it could not be produced during the lifetime of persons who might be recognized as prototypes of the characters. The unpublished play will remain in a vault until 1978.

At the author's bedside when he died was his third wife, the former Carlotta Monterey, and a nurse.

The final years of O'Neill's life were as tragic as the plays that made him world famous. He suffered from paralytic disease, which made him unable to write since "The Iceman Cometh" was produced in 1946.

O'Neill, whose plays won the 1936 Nobel literature prize and three Pulitzer prizes for drama, was born Oct. 16, 1888 in New York. His father was James O'Neill, a well-known actor who frequently alternated roles with Edwin Booth, the noted Shakespearean.

O'Neill gained his early reputation for short plays, but later wrote full-length dramas. Later he wrote plays requiring about five hours to perform. The first of these was "Strange Interlude" in 1928 and the second, "Mourning Becomes Electra" in 1932. The latter was regarded by many as his finest work.

The dramatist's first wife was the former Kathleen Jenkins, whom he married in 1909. Their only son, Eugene Jr., committed suicide three years ago.

Following their divorce in 1912, he married Agnes Boulton. They had two children of whom one, Oona, now is married to actor Charlie Chaplin.

O'Neill and Miss Boulton were divorced in 1929, 11 years after their marriage. That same year he married Miss Monterey.

O'Neill's 46-acre sand-dune estate and tiny workshop at Provincetown were saved from the auction-block a month ago by Edward Lipare of Brooklyn, N.Y., who voluntarily paid $46.17 in delinquent property taxes for "sentimental reasons."

It was reported the author would be buried in a private ceremony but the time and place of the funeral were not announced.

Supersonic Bang Kills Ditch Digger

COLD-WAR TROPHIES, BRIDES AND BABIES BOUND FOR CANADA

OTTAWA (CP)—About 100 German cold-war brides will be heading for Canada within the next two months.

The army announced Friday that the first of 65 German wives of soldiers in the 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade will arrive at Halifax Dec. 10. With them will be some 20 German-Canadian babies born before the 27th Brigade was rotated home on leave.

It was estimated that the final total of marriages between brigade members and German frauleins will be about 100.

HARRY PENMAN

Penman Plans Extended Stay In Homeland

Victoria advertising man Harry G. Penman, recently returned from a visit to his native Scotland, will be going back to Britain on an extended visit. Mr. Penman leaves Monday. He will travel by train to the east coast and embark aboard the Queen Mary from New York on Dec. 23. He intends to stay in London. His daughter, Ruth, will accompany him, staying six months. Born in Glasgow, Mr. Penman, at age 19, went to Rangoon, Burma, to work for an export firm. He came to Vancouver Island six years later.

He served overseas in the First World War with the Canadian army. After hostilities, he went to Seattle to establish his own advertising agency. In 1939, he returned to Victoria to set up an agency here. Mr. Penman will retain an interest in the business here which will be run by the partners Jack Henslowe and Owen Jull. ### Peace River Asks Railway to Coast

A delegation of Chamber of Commerce officials from the B.C. and Alberta sections of the Peace River block Friday urged the provincial cabinet to give their area a rail outlet to the Pacific Coast.

They were members of the "Coast Outlet Committee." Spokesman W. T. Winchester of Peace River, Alta., expressed satisfaction with the interview and said the B.C. government is "away ahead of us."

He declined to elaborate. The committee had a similar interview Oct. 6 with the Alberta government.

Crime Comic Guard Planned By City PTA

Teacher Federation Co-Operation Sought

The crime comics issue has reared its head again in Victoria.

At a meeting last night the Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council prepared to fight what was termed a new invasion of the undesirable publications.

The council approved resolutions seeking co-operation of the B.C. Teacher Federation in bringing the matter to attention of the attorney-general's department.

Plans were made to set up a PTA watch on newsstands, and a committee was named to interview local wholesalers with an appeal to keep the offending publications off newsstands.

The meeting also endorsed a James Bay PTA resolution urging action to curb increase in crime pictures over television during juvenile viewing hours.

Action on the crime comics followed a warning by Mrs. E. Gray that a new wave of the "dreadfuls" depending on fear and sadism has recently begun to appear. She displayed a number of publications bearing such titles as "Erie, 'Terror,' 'Out of the Shadows,' and others.

"It's a remarkable army," he said, "and very smart."

Msgr. Roy arrived in Vancouver Thursday and came to Victoria Friday morning. He visited St. Joseph's Hospital in the morning and HMCS Naden in the afternoon.

At the naval base, Msgr. Roy stood next to Rear Admiral J.C. Hibbard on the reviewing stand at the Pacific Coast flag office and took the salute as the station personnel marched past to conclude the admiral's two-day inspection.

Afterwards, Msgr. Roy was the admiral's guest at tea.

He left Victoria Friday night. Msgr. Roy was senior Roman Catholic chaplain in the Second World War and was enthroned as Archbishop of Quebec in 1947. Quebec is the oldest Catholic diocese in North America.

This was the second trip to Korea for the archbishop, who also has visited Canadian troops in Germany.

'NO FEELING OF BITTERNESS'

Parents of Murdered Child Visitors in Slayer's Home

CAMP ZAMA, Japan (UP) — The parents of murdered nine-year-old Susan Rothschild went to the yellow frame house of her slayer today to offer assistance and comfort to his wife.

Col. and Mrs. Jacquard H. Rothschild of Chicago visited the wife and two adopted Japanese children of Master Sgt. Maurice L. Schick to tell her they held no grudge against him.

Schick confessed earlier today that he strangled Susan on Nov. 21 because he had an "uncontrollable urge to kill."

"My husband and I feel that Sergeant Schick is a sick man and we have no personal feeling of revenge or bitterness about what has transpired," Mrs. Rothschild said after leaving the house.

"Mrs. Schick is a wonderful person and the two girls have obviously been brought up in a warm and loving atmosphere," Mrs. Rothschild added.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A minor league baseball player accidentally shot himself to death in front of his home Thursday night.

Nicholas J. Chumbris, 24, was carrying four guns from his car after a U.S. Thanksgiving Day hunting trip when he appar-

Gregory and Gunderson

IN MR. GEORGE GREGORY THE politics of British Columbia have found a promising figure, who should go far. His victory in the Victoria by-election is probably without precedent in the modern political history of Canada. So far as memory serves, no government, just elected and in full control of a legislature, has nominated its leading minister in a seat recently won by its party and seen him defeated by a candidate never nominated before.

If the chief meaning of this election is that the people of the provincial capital have voted no-confidence in the new Government, despite the complication of a split opposition vote, if the Government itself largely defeated its minister by its own policies, acts and manners, it is nevertheless true that Mr. Gregory himself deserved his victory. With a few weeks only to make himself known, he has impressed Victorians with his views and his character. He will go on, we may be sure, to impress the Legislature and the people of British Columbia as a whole.

His election not only shows the continuing power of Liberal thought in this community and throughout British Columbia, but will stimulate the Liberal Party towards recovery of its old position in politics.

Liberalism remains as the only practical alternative to the extreme of Social Credit on the right and socialism on the left. Mr. Gregory has shown here that Liberalism has a great and essential part to play in the future of public affairs and already has risen from its recent defeats. Led by young, active and able men like Mr. Gregory, it can face the future with new confidence because it is based essentially on the kind of moderate policy which a great part of our people, probably a majority, desire.

Whether Mr. Bennett has learned the lesson of his disaster in Victoria remains to be seen. The electors have repudiated his policies. They have also repudiated the whole garish masquerade by which Mr. Bennett and an ambitious group of Conservatives insinuated themselves into the Social Credit Party, solely as a means to power. And they have demanded, at the first opportunity, that Mr. Bennett come clean and reveal whether he is a Social Creditor or not, whether the Government is to be run by Conservatives in disguise or by the hot-gospelers of Major Douglas' financial theories.

As for Mr. Gunderson, he is the victim of a situation which, apparently, he did not understand until too late. By Mr. Bennett's persuasion, he was drawn into a Government which has made itself part of a national movement candidly designed to install the theories of Social Credit in Ottawa. Mr. Gunderson could not escape full responsibility for these larger purposes. He is lucky to escape them so early and so easily. It is to be suspected that he knows it already and would be happy in retirement, where the public will wish him well.

If, as some sources suggest, Mr. Gunderson has no intention of seeking a constituency elsewhere, his retirement should not be postponed. A man, however competent and honorable, who has been rejected not once but twice by the voters has no right to conduct any public business as a member of the Government. He certainly has no right to accompany Mr. Bennett, as a colleague, to a conference with the Federal Government. He has no right to speak for British Columbia, to sponsor any policy or sign anything more than routine documents, and that briefly.

It would be different if Mr. Gunderson intended to run again and secure a seat. Then it could be argued that, in the interim, he was constitutionally entitled to preside in the treasury.

While some of the most vital aspects of our constitution are unwritten, they absolutely prohibit government by men who are not elected and have no prospect of election. Mr. Gunderson, therefore, should announce either that he will run again or that he is retiring immediately to make way for a successor who has the confidence of the electors.

If Mr. Bennett's Government and party contain all the talent of which he boasts, there should be no difficulty in finding that successor and installing him without delay.

Where Stands the Farmer?

DELEGATES TO THE B.C. FEDERATION of Agriculture convention here have asked for a Royal Commission inquiry into their industry.

They have advanced that proposal in the interests of the 22,000 farmers they represent—a segment of British Columbia's population to which this province owes much not merely for economic returns, but for the part it has played in development.

If a Royal Commission will give satisfaction to the farmer, it is worth serious consideration. It may reveal few facts that are not already known, but it could be of particular use in explaining the man on the land to the urban citizen, informing the latter of problems confronting the agriculturist and relating in understandable terms the position of both to present living standards.

Such an inquiry might also remind the farmer of some of the facts of life affecting his industry—an industry in which many products are priced too high to meet the competition of foreign producers in such basic commodities as eggs, bacon, cheese and beef.

It might draw to his attention once again the vast gap spreading between the dollar and the sterling countries and emphasize for him problems which must be solved before that gap is bridged.

Undoubtedly a full inquiry would disclose the farmer to be in a better position, by comparison to those of other countries, than some people think. But it would in no way minimize the difficulties of the small farmer in this province, the sturdy, industrious individual whose rate of income has failed to keep pace with that of his urban brother in industry, and whose problems deserve grave consideration and sympathetic understanding.

As Our Readers See It

ON GUARD

The unwarranted and insulting remark made by the lady member for Victoria on election night, and I quote: "That we better get down there and guard those ballot boxes," seems to be typical of certain prominent members of the Social Credit party (machine?).

To infer that the returning officer, his staff and other political parties were ready to tamper with the ballot boxes shows a pitiful lack of consideration for the honesty of others. Perhaps the wish was father to the thought?

The lady member apparently has not realized that we are not living in the dark ages. It is to be hoped she will soon grow up.

CITIZEN.

IN THE BEGINNING

Now that the much advertised election is over in Victoria, it may be possible to call attention to a short news item in last Saturday's Times, November 21, as to how scientists who depended on some bones found in a gravel pit in England to prove their theories of the age and origin of mankind and this earth, have been badly deceived.

The story they built up from those "deliberately faked" ape bones has been part of the basis of much of the present day teaching in the text books used in our schools and colleges about the origin of things, which is now seen to be false.

So also it will be found on careful investigation that all the claims of evolutionists as to the origin of man will not stand the test. The account of the creation as given in the Bible by the Creator Himself is alone true and worthy of our acceptance.

8,393 VOTERS

Here are a few observations that future politicians might well soliloquize about.

"8,393 intelligent voters came to light in Victoria recently."

"8,393 Victorians will not like you if you try to feed them humbug, no matter how skillful a liar you may be."

"8,393 citizens will say there is a virtue, after all, in being born and brought up in Victoria."

"8,393 Victorians will not vote for you if you claim glory for yourself where the credit really belongs to others."

"8,393 voters will vote against you if you juggle figures so's to present an effect which, on examination, is provably incorrect and false."

"8,393 Victorians see no value whatever in the flimsy promise of a financial revolution, now or ever."

"8,393 people will put the boots to you if you pose under a political title suggesting an economic system already condemned by the Supreme Court of Canada."

And no matter what other attributes you may possess, 8,393 Victorians will vote you out if you say you are "Social Credit."

'AMIALE' DRUNKS

The Grey Cup story in last week's Times Weekend section uses the adjective "amiable" as descriptive of the type of drunkenness which, so the writer of the article tells us, is one of the characteristics of the Grey Cup festivities in Toronto.

Is drunkenness decent and moral because it is amiable? Does not the language of the article suggest a viewpoint that is epicurean in spirit rather than Christian even though we are living in the 20th century of the Christian era?

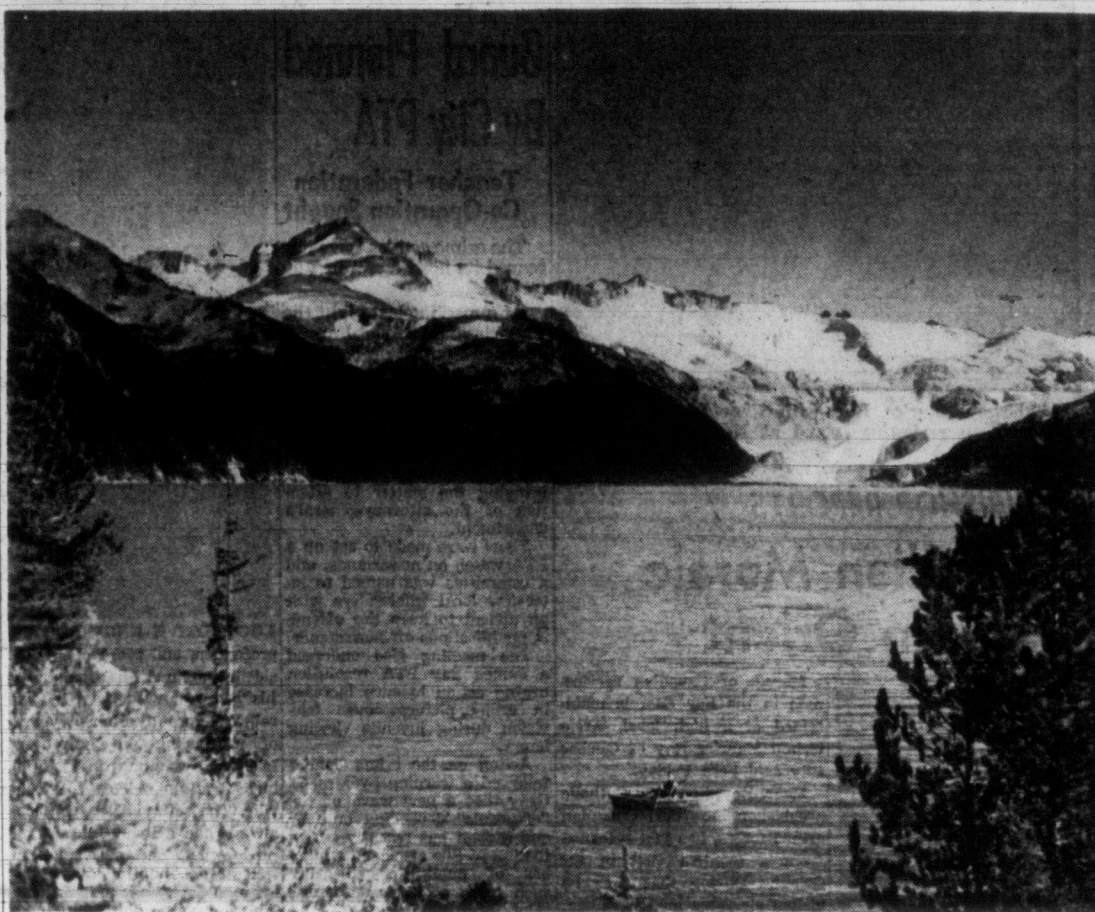

We have just come through two world wars and on occasion officially and formally thank God for the preservation of our freedom. A third world war looms as a possibility. Why not, if we show so little appreciation of God's goodness as to offer Him occasional lip service only. If we believe in God at all surely we should remember that while "He does not willingly afflict the children of men" yet He has imposed a law on man, communities, and nations that "whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap."

The picture suggested by the Grey Cup story is one of pagan materialism which cares little practically for God the Creator and His inherent rights in man His creature. It was to people of this class that the apostle Paul addressed himself when he said "God hath appointed a day in which He will judge the world."

LOOSE ENDS

Of Witches and Memories

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

SOMETIMES one could wish, rather wistfully and with little hope, that the politicians of the United States would read a little Canadian history before they meddle in the business of this country. A little of their own history would do Canadians no harm either.

Messrs. McCarthy, Jenner, McCormick and their fellow witch-hunters are the products of a long and remarkable American history, the straight and legitimate descendants of a certain repulsive strain which first appeared at Salem, Mass., in the seventeenth century, and which enforced its exclusive knowledge of God by the use of the stocks, the scissiors to cut off ungodly ears and the gibbet.

But we should remember, before growing excited, that such people have always been, and remain, a small minority among the sensible American people. They must be tolerated, in a free society, until they can be cured by persuasion.

It is quite another matter when the witch hunters attempt to cross an international boundary. Then they encounter not merely the objection of the Canadian Government but the whole instinct and inner being of the Canadian people. They encounter the accumulated, silent but formidable force of Canadian history. It is that force which has been suddenly brought into play by the Gouzenko affair. And this has always happened, over and over again, when any outside power touches the inarticulate, amorphous and uncalculating growth which, for lack of a better name, we call the Canadian character.

ALL but a small minority of Americans learned this fact long ago. They learned it in the course of their own revolution before the walls of Quebec in a winter snowstorm, in 1775, when their gallant General Montgomery and his men were shot down in a narrow street. They learned it again in the ridiculous War of 1812; in the Rebellion of 1837, when well-intentioned liberators from the United States were beset in a stone windmill at Prescott and their misguided leader (defended by a young lawyer named John A. Macdonald) was promptly hanged, for his mistake, and later in the Fenian raids.

That kind of mistake is happily far behind us. Manifest Destiny, which once undertook to bestride the continent from Panama to the North Pole, has shrunk to the pitiable dimensions of a McCarthy and can find no home outside the garish tower of The Chicago Tribune.

CANADIANS should not imagine, however, that their resistance alone stopped Manifest Destiny. It was stopped by the good sense of the American people. They could always have possessed Canada if they had wanted it seriously but, for all the howlings on the lunatic fringe, the United States is the first great power in history which has never sought to build an empire and is horrified at such a thought. Without an incredible stroke of good luck—the presence of the world's best neighbor—there would never have been a Canadian nation at all, no Canadian character to defend, no Canadian witches for the McCarthys to hunt.

IF things in Canada have turned out differently from the general expectations of the last century, if they have denied the predictions of many distinguished British, American and Canadian thinkers, the facts today are as they are and not as some people might wish. As such they must be faced.

Among them is the fact that Canada no longer is a weak congeries of quarrelling colonies or, in Durham's words, two races warring in the bosom of a single state, then a structure of paper only. Canada, though small in numbers, is a major nation by any other measurement and one of the most stable and unified in the world. And the other fact of most concern to Americans is that Canada must always be the United States' most vital friend, ally and business partner.

THE McCarthys thus are blundering into something older and larger than they seem to understand. That is why their private witch hunt becomes a public danger. It offers no serious danger to Canada because the American people will never support it when they realize that it is attempting to spread beyond Washington, where it is legal and tolerated, into another country, where it is illegal and intolerable.

It does offer, however, a serious danger to the United States. For more than anything else McCarthyism—regardless of the merits of the Dexter White and other cases of the same sort—is undermining the leadership, prestige and authority of the United States not only in Canada but throughout the free world and certainly has earned the Order of Lenin.

THIS is serious for a reason entirely to the credit and honor of the American people. Their leadership, prestige and authority are uniquely built not on their undoubted military power but on their morals. Military power can be deployed, calculated and rebuilt. A reputation and a power built on morals cannot be squandered by a few irresponsible spendthrifts without terrible and permanent loss to its owners. The American people, I am convinced, will stop this unnecessary waste as soon as they realize what is happening to them.

THE VOTE MEANT MORE THAN MERE APPROVAL

M. Laniel Wins a Ticket to Bermuda

THE multiplicity of French governments in the past few years has become a byword. It has been said that Frenchmen change their administration as often as they change their socks—and with as little concern. But all exaggerations aside, it is an event when a government of France survives a crisis, and the victory of Premier Joseph Laniel on Friday carried more than normal implications.

The basic issue before the French Assembly concerned French support of the western plan for European defense. But the measure was so weakly worded—the result of M. Laniel's attempts to secure agreement—that in itself it meant little as regards a course of action for the republic. It represented mild support for the European Defense Community, little more, and could be reversed or discounted at any time.

The 31 vote margin in favor of the government was far more significant for its attendant implications than for its immediate effects.

WAY STILL OPEN

It meant, for one thing, that the Bermuda conference to take place shortly will have full Big Three representation—Britain, the United States and France. It meant that an apparent Soviet attempt to overthrow Laniel and scuttle the conference had been defeated. It meant that the way is still open for discussion of pressing problems whose solution will benefit France no less than her western allies, the world no less than the west.

Premier Laniel overcame the forces of communism, neutralism and de Gaulism to win his point, for all of these oppose his general policy of close co-operation with western defense plans calling for German rearmament, and participation in a joint European Army. But in going to Bermuda to meet with the President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill he will have additional problems on his mind.

The meeting without doubt will go carefully into the question of EDC's future. As of now the defense program is stalled, waiting for French and Italian ratification. Of the partners, only West Germany has given formal approval. But two factors may tend to counteract France's traditional fear of German military resurgence and the spectre of half a million armed and trained German soldiers.

First, Britain has indicated it will co-operate closely with the EDC program, although remaining aloof from active involvement in the joint force.

GERMAN ALTERNATIVES

Secondly, the alternatives that loom for Germany should convince France that German arms will be safer if incorporated into a common defensive organization than if allowed to grow separately. For the U.S. recognizes the necessity of winning West German participation, and if EDC fails may propose German membership in NATO, with the natural accompaniment of control of its own troops by the Bonn government, or even a separate rearmament with U.S. aid which would place the whole project beyond French control or influence.

Obviously, France had to have responsible representation at Bermuda next week, for EDC cannot remain too long in a state of suspended animation or the alternatives must come into play.

BONE TO PICK

But France will also have a bone to pick. Almost without respite since the end of the Second World War the republic has poured money and the lives of officers and men into the Indo-China conflict. The drain has been so severe as to imperil the financial stability of France and the effective staffing of her armies. The burden has become too great.

A few weeks ago M. Laniel was given Assembly support on the assurance that he would seek a new deal in the conduct of the campaign. For the fighting is more than a colonial fracas—it is today's front line war of democracy versus communism and hence a matter of concern to the whole free world.

Laniel is committed to seeking an early termination of the conflict, and a sharing of its costs with his western allies. It may be said that his position has been appreciated by Britain and the United States, and promises of aid have been given. But the Premier must return from Bermuda with something concrete or face further trouble at home.

The Premier had an additional hurdle to surmount in winning his victory in the Assembly. On the eve of the crucial vote Russia approached the west with a reversal of its previous stand on a Big Four conference.

Only a few days before the Soviet had insisted that a Big Five meeting, including Red China, must discuss a Far East settlement before the Big Four could iron out the German and Austrian problems. But on Thursday this stand was abandoned. Moscow wooed the west—and the French Assembly—with a proposal for an early Berlin meeting to discuss German unification. No prior stipulation was attached.

OBVIOUS MOVE

It was obvious that this move would strengthen the hand of Laniel's opponents by opening again the possibility of a German solution that did not include rearmament, and encouraging them to defer any approval of EDC.

But Laniel survived the test; in the eyes of some observers may even have benefited from it. For much as Laniel wished strength to take him to Bermuda, his opponents may have seen the need of retaining him in office so that he could later go to Berlin with power to speak for all France.

So ground the diplomatic wheels in a world ever more closely integrated, where domestic politics have largely become component parts of international developments, where the vote of the democratically elected representative of some little village can cause repercussions in half a dozen capitals around the globe.—B. A. T.

Kisutch Sees Predators Turn Into Victims In the Grim Undersea Struggle to Survive

By DR. G. CLIFFORD CARL, Director, Provincial Museum

SHORTLY after daylight the grilse which had remained together during the night continued to swim across the open water of the bay until they came to the edge of a gravel bar running out from the edge of the river mouth. This they followed aimlessly, passing over an area of barnacle-covered boulders and eventually coming to rocky shore that dropped steeply into deep water.

Just clear of the rock a bed of kelp lay at anchor. The expanded bulbs of the kelp heads floated near the surface and from them groups of elongated fronds pointed the direction of the drift. The hollow stems tapering downward from the neck hung limply as if each plant were suspended on an invisible wire over a bottomless void.

The grilse passed between the kelp stalks, scattering a few young rock fish which were searching through the thicket for amphipods.

Between the kelp bed and the rocky shore the surface of the water was undisturbed by the wind—which ruffled the unprotected water outside. Directly above the young salmon brightening sky could be seen but on the periphery the outside world was masked by the reflecting surface of the water which appeared silvery from below.

Where the gently undulated waterline met the rock face, a row of silvery bubbles clung each time the surface rose and delicate fronds of seaweed and colonies of moss-animals anchored to the rock by flexible stems lifted and fell with each surge. From an overhanging shelf layered with mats of sponges and slimy, coiled shells of serpulid worms, water, left by the falling tide, dripped onto the heaving surface, pocking its silver and causing concentric spreading ripples.

The grilse moved in closer to the rock face and began to swim parallel to it against the incoming tide, which had commenced to flow into the bay. Barnacles in the protection of crevices and tunnels in the rock, sensing the influx of fresh sea water, began to work their sweeps in rapid tempo and anemones in similar locations spread their innocent appearing attractions for any unwary victim which might happen along.

Below the grilse a school of sea perch searched the rock face for worms, small shrimps and other tidbits, while tide-pool sculpins darted in and out of cover to examine bits of shell dislodged by the feeding perch.

In the swirls of tidal water off a promontory the grilse came upon a swarm of young crabs swimming with the current. The gnome-like creatures with translucent bodies and appendages were barely discernible in the turbid water. If it had not been for their prominent darkly pigmented eyes and the twinkling motion of their legs they might have passed unnoticed.

As it was, they attracted the attention of the hungry salmon which began to dash back and forth through the swarm of larvae until all but a few were snapped up.

Below the flashing fish a lingcod lay in the shadow of a few wide fronds of sea lettuce, its own mottled body appearing like a shadow itself. Except for slight movements of the cheek-plates and lower jaw as water was drawn in over the gills, there was no movement of the fish until its eyes rolled slightly upward to gaze upon the activity nearer the surface.

When the feeding fish had drifted with the current to a point almost directly above, the lingcod rose from its resting position and with a couple of thrusts of the tail and powerful side-fins it charged in among the milling fish, seized the nearest grilse and swallowed it whole, head first.

The remaining grilse scattered in all directions, some of them breaking through the water's surface in their panic to escape from the predator. Kisutch and two others which happened to be nearest the promontory fled around the point and entered a cove in which they continued to feed on the rising tide.

Trying to Hide in the Headlines

It's high time we Canadians indulged in a little plain talk about brother Igor Gouzenko.

Eight years ago, when the little Russian cypher clerk walked out of his embassy with 28 incriminating documents stuffed in his shirt, he did this country a great service. On the basis of his firm evidence, the North American spy ring was exposed.

Gouzenko's rewards, both spiritual and material, were great. We gave him asylum, citizenship, and the costly protection of the RCMP. A wealthy Canadian set up a lifetime annuity for him. His story, serialized in an American magazine and later published as a book, and his movie rights, made the once-obscure clerk a wealthy and famous man overnight.

What has been our reward for all this? Gouzenko has dumped us into one of the most embarrassing frictions we've ever suffered with our southern neighbor. He has brought down on Lester Pearson some of the most violent smears known to a Canadian statesman. What's the explanation?

It's simple. In the argot of the theatre, Igor Gouzenko has become "hammy."

While the harassed Mounties have been trying to keep him out of the public eye, to help him create a new identity, Gouzenko has sought the bright lights under the marquee. He has become a victim of his own press clippings. He's a pundit. He wants to issue Statements.

Let me give you an example: About four years ago, I lunched in Montreal with a journalist friend who had just come from an interview with Igor. Suddenly my friend produced a cheque from his wallet and said: "You'll get a kick out of this."

It was a cheque for $500, signed "Igor Gouzenko."

My friend told me the story: Gouzenko, riding in a car with his Mountie protectors and the journalist, had suddenly asked him to "ghost" a new book he was planning.

When my friend refused, Igor dangled the cheque out of the car window, saying: "Take it, or I will drop this cheque on the road."

Such actions, I was told, were not uncommon at the time. Unequipped to handle his new-found wealth, Gouzenko was squandering it prodigally. This, of course, was highly embarrassing to the RCMP, since the cheques were going through dozens of hands in an Ottawa bank and thus providing a relative clue to his whereabouts.

Far from helping the Mounties in their onerous task—which, after all, was for his own good—Gouzenko was giving them a bad time.

With this background, it is not perhaps so hard to understand his latest pronouncement. He has told a man from the Chicago Tribune (of all papers!) that he thought an interview with Senator McCarthy and his associates might prove "worthwhile."

Now ask yourself: living the life he has for the past eight years, under RCMP guard, what can Gouzenko possibly know about recent Russian spy activities? What can he tell the committee that he hasn't already testified?

It is on the record that his last meeting with an FBI official in August, 1950, "produced no new evidence."

By his recent statement, Gouzenko has invited McCarthyism into Canada. It is a concept which the vast majority of Canadians find inimical to our way of life.

Lester Pearson has said that Gouzenko is free to go to the United States and testify, but at his own risk. If he wants to step out from under the RCMP protective wing, and make his bow to the U.S. press, radio and TV audience, he is perfectly at liberty to do so.

If, of course, he gets shot in the process, there will be some consolation. His wife and children will have a dandy batch of headlines for the family scrap-book!

Some Screen Memories

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Putnam has just published "A Pictorial History of the Silent Screen," and it is jammed with memories for those who can recall the roaring '20s and before. I don't go back that far, but here are some interesting notes I gleaned from the book:

Thomas Edison, who developed movies in 1889, thought they were a novelty that would soon wear off. Among early film players: Annie Oakley, the real one, Buffalo Bill, strong man Eugene Sandow, James J. Corbett.

Tom Mix was a marshal in an Oklahoma town until a picture company came to the place. The first western star was Bronco Billy Anderson, who still lives in Hollywood.

First epic: Italian-made "Quo Vadis," which ran 22 weeks in New York at $1 top night. Among the early titles: "Ivanhoe," "Prisoner of Zenda," "Julius Caesar," "Three Musketeers," "Billy the Kid." Which proves that there's little new in the movies.

Leon Trotsky was a bit player with Clara Kimball Young in "My Official Wife" 1914. Theda Bara made 40 pictures for Fox in three years. Real name: Theodosia Goodman.

Highest salary paid to 1915 was $40,000 to Billie Burke for five weeks' work—but in 1916 Charlie Chaplin drew $675,000 for the year. Talk about present-day epics: D. W. Griffith's "Intolerance" took 20 months to shoot and ran three and one-half hours on the screen.

Tallulah Bankhead's first professional appearance was in a movie, "30 a Week" in 1918. Clifton Webb was playing opposite Barbara La Marr in "Belvedere" in the early '20s. Mr. Belvedere!

Big three attractions of 1923: "The Virginian," "10 Commandments," "Covered Wagon." And in 1953, Paramount is again planning to make all three. P. int-size Mickey Rooney was appearing with Colleen Moore in "Orchids and Ermine" in 1927. Clark Gable was an extra in the first "Merry Widow," filmed in 1925.

PRAIRIE ROUND-UP

Horsemeat Loses Appeal in West

CALGARY (CP)—Horsemeat has lost its appeal for western Canadians.

The western section of the Council of Canadian Beef Producers says that of 33 shops licensed to sell horsemeat in cities between Winnipeg and Victoria in 1951, only three were operating early this year.

With high prices ruling the beef market in 1951, horsemeat—at savings of 30 to 40 cents a pound for dinner meat—offered a strong economical appeal, but in most cases the shops found the demand indifferent.

Shops still operating when the CCBP made its survey included one each in Vancouver, Calgary and Edmonton.

EDMONTON (CP)—Alfred Lloyd Funk, 32, was convicted Friday of rape and remanded by Mr. Justice Hugh John MacDonald in Supreme Court to next Wednesday for sentence.

Funk, arrested after two men entered an Edmonton home early on Oct. 18, also was convicted of auto theft.

The prosecution contended that Funk raped an Edmonton housewife while a second man stood guard over a maid and also that when the two men left the premises, Funk drove away in the housewife's car.

EDMONTON (BUP)—Fine weather failed to lift the gloom of searchers today as they continued looking for three men missing in the northern Alberta wilderness since last Sunday.

A total of 24 planes, 15 of them civilian, were expected to go aloft today in the search for the three and their missing Cessna 180 ambulance plane.

Hopes of rescuing the men rose sharply Friday night when a message was found stamped in the snow. Spirits fell just as quickly when investigators found children had trampled out the word H-E-L-P.

Missing were Gordon Macdonald, pilot of the plane; Dr. Donald Wilson of Grande Prairie, and Lloyd William, his critically ill polio patient.

WINNIPEG (BUP)—Some 500 paralyzed victims of Manitoba's record 1953 polio epidemic will get physiotherapy treatment before a complete rehabilitation program is launched, the polio advisory board said today.

The board's interim report on the disease to Health Minister

F. C. Bell said all provincial doctors were being prepared for patient rehabilitation, but physiotherapy will top the program.

Special polio treatment clinics are currently set up in children's Princess Elizabeth, Shriner's Deer Lodge, and Brandon general hospitals.

"In spite of enormous difficulties," a local doctor said, "the committee has the opinion that general treatment of acute poliomyelitis has been quite satisfactory."

Raddall Sustains Top Rank With Latest Novel 'Tidefall'

TIDEFALL, by Thomas H. Raddall; McClelland & Stewart Ltd., Toronto; $3.75.

With "Tidefall," Nova Scotia's Thomas Raddall has added strength to a rapidly-growing proof that he is Canada's leading fiction writer.

Coming closely on the heels of "Frieda's Fancy" and "The Nymph and the Lamp," this new novel deals with a man who had much but wanted more.

Born with nothing but a nimble brain, a pair of capable fists, and the ruthless ability to use both, Sax Nolan proved that in the run-running days of the late 1920s these assets could be parlayed into a sizable fortune.

It was, however, a bounding desire to be respectable that leads to the denouement of this novel, and Nolan's overpowering urge to enter the front door of homes to which he once delivered fish at the back door.

Chief prize in his race to respectability is the gentle and gracious Rene Caraday who, one way and another, manages to survive a marriage she hates with the baffled Sax.

Some novelists can be likened to painters whose work leaps to completion with great splashes of color and broad, sweeping strokes. Mr. Raddall is the bricklayer type—leisurely, solid, and precise—whose finished product is a solid, three-dimensional structure.

Mortar between the bricks is made up of a sound knowledge of the sea, a thorough understanding of men, and a nodding acquaintance with the ins and outs of that secretive trade that brought fast men and fast boats together for a roaring 12 years.

Mr. Raddall started slowly, but has increased his skill at his craft with every book. He is definitely big league now. He boasts that few contemporary Canadian authors can make, and one of those whose newest works are awaited with impatience by a growing audience.

NAIRNE ON STAMPS

Many collectors, especially old-timers, are inclined to look back on the "good old days" of say 25 years ago, as a sort of golden age, when opportunities of wonderful "buys" offered themselves on all sides, in a way which they feel could never happen again.

Actually, things aren't too bad at all for the modern stamp collector. In the writer's opinion—in fact, chances for a little philatelic speculation are probably as good as ever they were!

The difficulty is to pick the winners—but don't forget that this applied just as much in 1925 as it does today.

All stamps which could have been bought cheaply then didn't turn out to be bargains, by any means. What was there to bid to the old-timer that he should put his money into booklet panes, the 50c Edward, the 1928 3c and 5c, or the 50c 1940?

Nothing whatever, of course!

As for the moderns—take a look at the recent OHMS plate blocks. For at least a month after they were issued in 1949-50 Ottawa was supplying on request the rare lower-left corner blocks of the 7c, 10c, 14c, 20c and 50c showing the missing period after the "S" of the overprint. In fact the writer knows of three different occasions when these were sent to collectors who didn't even know the error existed until they noticed it when they came to examine their stamps! The set cost just over $4 then—today it sells around $100!

Then what about the despised 4c Coronation stamp? The four corners from each of the four plates have a total face value of $2.56, and for a few days they were all available at Ottawa for the asking. Now, hardly six months later, it would cost you over $30 to complete the set.

These are just a few of the many instances that go to show that there is still plenty of good hunting.

Rehabilitation Of Homeless, Human Story

American Writer Draws On Work With UNRRA, IRO

THE WILD PLACE by Kathryn Hulme, McClelland & Stewart Ltd., Toronto, $4.25 225 pp.

This book was awarded the Atlantic $5,000 Non-Fiction Award. It tells, in rich and vivid prose, the experiences of an American woman who from 1945 to 1951 worked with UNRRA and IRO in the Rehabilitation Centres for the more than two million homeless who were found in Germany at the end of World War II.

There is heartache and much pathos as the author brings in to sharp focus three refugees who become close to her in her official duties. Much of the story concerns the German Wildflecken, (The Wild Place), a camp deep in the Bavarian forest. Here, in the early days of UNRRA administration, thousands upon thousands of displaced persons came by box car: the same European box car so well-known to Canadian troops, neatly stencilled: 40 Hommes, 8 Chevaux.

The difficulties, the almost inhuman effort required to house and administer the polyglot community are well told.

...the years of waiting while nations made possible a cautious and carefully selected immigration scheme bring, in good part, a real meaning to the reader.

COMMERCIAL PHILANTHROPY

The affair of "The Flying Virgins" finds its true perspective as told from the administrator's point of view. A French Canadian industrialist obtained permission to seek one hundred girls of spotless moral character for his spinning mill in a small town in Quebec.

The girls were to be paid the legal minimum, twenty cents per hour, and would have to contribute six dollars per week for room and board. As the whole idea was against the basic understanding of such displaced persons camps in that families would be broken up, the author waxed strong against its perpetrators.

"I stared at the wolf in philanthropist's clothing."

PROBLEMS OF D.P.'S

There is much of interest in this book, not only concerning the actual administration of the vast camps but also in the well-told human interest stories of some of the displaced persons. The skills, heartache, courage and deep despair of Europe's homeless "unfolds" with smooth writing. There is a compassion close to tears in the telling.

...and the proud pathos of Ignatz, the Pole, will again demonstrate the strange and powerful destructibility of the integrity of man.—F. C. E. Ford.

BOOK TALK

By JAMES SCOTT

"I'm shocked and I'm saddened," big Quent Reynolds said the other day when the gentlemen of the press confronted him with the fact that he was the dupe of one of the most spectacular examples of a literary hoax ever perpetrated in North America and, indeed, the first real, honest-to-gosh scandal of this nature ever known in this country.

Well, Quentin Reynolds and his publisher, the debonair Bennett Cerf, jolly well ought to be shocked and saddened for there is no doubt about it, any writer who can write a full-length book which is nothing but the big lie from beginning to end certainly has not done much of a job of checking the so-called facts and any publisher who accepts such a work certainly is an accessory after the fact.

'Spectacular Adventures'

By now, everybody knows the story. Chap, name of Dupre who lives out in Calgary, got telling a little story to his friends about some spectacular adventures he had during the war. The friends told other people about him and first thing you know this George Dupre was being asked to tell his story in public to a church organization, service clubs and the like of that. Then somehow (incidentally I know how but I'm not telling), a gentleman name of DeWitt Wallace who publishes a magazine called Reader's Digest was tipped off and that's where the trouble began.

For a long time I have deplored the practice of commissioning articles and books so they can be digested first—on the strength of promised publication—and then sold in the unbridged form to gullible John Q.

If there ever was a case of the cart before the horse, that's it. But it has gone on now for a long time and while a lot of the work has been unbelievably sloppy this is the first major scandal. And scandal it is, my friends, make no mistake about that.

The morality of George Dupre's actions is no affair of mine. The morality of the publishing gambit which made the jape possible certainly is.

Scandal Stimulated Sale

The procedure followed in the publication of Quentin Reynolds' "The Man Who Wouldn't Talk" is such that it was inevitable that bad work—in this case deceptive work—would result. When the man who is paying the shot wants a story in digest form, no writer, I don't care who he is, can turn out a book which will meet any respectable standard of literary appreciation later on. Always he has the digest, not the full-length work as his chief motive. Besides that, magazines being what they are, requiring timeliness above all else, put an arbitrary deadline on any piece submitted and no real author can write a book to order like that. The haste induces carelessness and the carelessness in this case induced misrepresentation.

It is time this kind of publishing stopped and publishers stood up against the importunate demands of magazines.

But I doubt if they will. Bennett Cerf's Random House offered to refund the purchase money to any of the people who had bought one of the 10,000 books sold on the first run. They were caught with an edition of 2,500 on their presses. Did they worry? Not on your necktie. Since the exposure, the demand has risen so sharply that already another edition of 10,000 is in preparation.

How are the old-fashioned standards of morality going to be restored to publishing if the book-buying public continues to show a preference for lies?

Along Book Row

Last Wednesday MacMillan gave a lot of people a chance to meet or renew acquaintances with Canada's senior novelist, Mazo de la Roche. The occasion was the publication of the 13th volume in the world-famous Jalna series, THE WHITEOAK BROTHERS (chronologically it is number five).

The book is slow in getting under way and for a while I feared that Miss de la Roche had lost the old touch, but about halfway through it hits the old Jalna stride and is a strong finisher. Something like the author herself. When I first met her she was retiring to the point of meeting her being a painful experience. Especially lately she has come out of her shell and more and more Canadians are learning to know her remarkable charm and wit. Don't know where the Whiteoak saga goes from here—but I hope there's lots more to come.

Time to remind all budding Canadian novelists that the Ryerson Fiction Award (one of the juiciest in the country) is open again this year, $500 outright and a guaranteed $500 on royalties for the best novel submitted. Entries must be postmarked not later than January 1, 1954.

From Female Point of View

Have just read Margaret Campbell Barnes' THE TUDOR ROSE, another in her series of historical novels about famous—if sometimes unfortunate—English queens. This one is about Elizabeth of York, heir to Edward IV and wife of Henry VII. When Mrs. Barnes visited this country a couple of years ago I had a long visit with her. She struck me then as a woman's writer, matronly herself with all the attributes which we respectfully seek in the female of the species. Her writing looks that way too, but here's a curious thing, the men I have tried out with her earlier books found them thoroughly satisfying too. It's history from a female point of view but Mrs. Barnes still leaves it rugged history. The book is the most violent so far.

And don't forget Claire Wallace's new one—MIND YOUR MANNERS—which is just what the title would lead you to expect. So far it's only available in Harlequin paper covers. Can't see why it shouldn't go into a more durable format.

Stirring Happy Memories Of Early Days of Farming

THE FIELDS OF HOME, Ralph Moody, George MacLeod Ltd., Toronto, price $4.00, 335 pp.

Latest of an impressive number of best sellers from the pen of one of America's best story tellers is "The Fields of Home." Ralph Moody in his most recent book clearly shows once again his sensitive understanding of boyhood pleasures and fully demonstrates his love of everyday living on a farm.

For those who would relive the days of youth and for others who would call to mind the busy work-filled days on a farm, the Fields of Home will bring back many a happy memory and quiet reminiscent chuckle. Mr. Moody tells a satisfying, heartwarming story of life on a New England farm, and of those who love the land and live close to it. His able pen describes in simple direct phrases the desire of accomplishment in reclaiming rundown land and turning it once again into rich fertile acres yielding abundant crops.

It is a true yet loving portrait of rural life at the beginning of the century when modern farm machinery was unknown and chores started at sun-up and finished long after dark.—Marguerite Laughlin.

Professor Preserves Eloquence Of Churchill's Youthful Works

WINGED WORDS, by H. L. Stewart, Ryerson Press, Toronto, 114 pages, $2.50.

Writing of Sir Winston Churchill as an author and speaker, H. L. Stewart draws attention to the British Prime Minister's literary works, and speeches of half a century ago, some of which have since been overlooked.

"In not a few of his shorter works there is a charm and felicity of expression which those who know him only by his war histories would be glad to have brought to their attention," Prof. Stewart says.

INDEPENDENT

Sir Winston's radiant and original imperialism which marked his youthful writing at the time of the Boer War are referred to.

His "Roving Commission" shows how he always found it difficult to subordinate his views on public affairs to current exigencies of party position.

All through his life he has found himself in disagreement alternately with both the historic English parties.

Through references to his "winged words" one gets a brief autobiography of Churchill's career from the days he was a young war correspondent in South Africa to the present day.

The book is obviously written by an admirer of an outstanding figure in world history.—T. M.

Changing England Forms Subject Of Appealing Story

THE SPLENDOR FALLS by Norah Burke, George J. McLeod Ltd., Toronto, 279 pages, $3.25.

In a story of an aristocratic English family, impoverished by war and taxes, trying bravely to maintain their 300-room palace, the author blends romance, humor and history with considerable skill.

The very human duke and duchess are lovable characters who face the changing pattern with courage. In a small section of their huge mansion for which at one time they ordered coal in hundred ton lots they manage to run an enchanting household which their daughter and grandchildren share.

How they meet the problem, the romance between their daughter and a handsome scion of decadent nobility who rises to face things realistically in a changing world form part of a human story aimed to prove why "there'll always be an England."

ONE TRANSCENDANT ART

Completeness May Be Reason For Wide Appeal of Ballet

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

Never before have I been made so vividly aware of the integration of all the arts into one transcendent art, as during Sadler's Wells performances last week at Vancouver's Orpheum Theatre.

Johnson

genii who, taking the threads of several skeins, both within and without the theatre, wove them together to create a thing of ineffable beauty, reminiscent of all yet complete in its individuality.

Painting, sculpture, music, poetry, abstract design, the arts of comedy and tragedy, the art of physical motion, all these and their subsidiaries were involved in the production of each ballet, whether classic, romantic, epic or abstract.

COMPLETENESS
Perhaps this completeness explains why many people experience a rarer delight in watching ballet than in partaking of any other art form. And again, it could equally explain the disinterest of some who prefer other phases of theatre and for whom the distillation of the absorbed arts is too idealistic and remote.

Comparison of the standard of Sadler's Wells with that of other fully professional troupes is a pastime indulged in by most who have attended last week's performances. It occurs to me that one of the main differences lies along similar lines to those apparent in the best British movies.

Touring ballet companies I have seen so far, appear to operate on a graduated standard. That is to say, one or two stars represent a peak which is not maintained by the supporting members of the company who too often sink into a run-of-the-mill category.

Naturally, as in any other artistic creation, perfection fluctuates, appearing and disappearing in the course of a performance.

PERFECTION IS GOAL.
This is paralleled by the star system of Hollywood movies. But in the Sadler's Wells, we have a company in which each dancer necessarily sets perfection as his goal and will not be maintained in the company if he falls far short of that goal.

COMEDY SAVES TOTEM
A good box office still being of prime importance to the continuance in Victoria of Totem Theatre, producers Arngim and Baker are going right along with the adage, "laugh and the world laughs with you, weep and you weep alone," which they have found to be the sober truth as far as this city's theatre audiences are concerned.

So it's comedy again next week, but with a crossing of the Atlantic to a new locale—New York's Murray Hill. Leslie Howard wrote "Elizabeth Sleeps Out," the story of self-doomed spinsters and the handsome young man who impersonates their nephew.

Dynamic Rosemary Malkin plays "Elizabeth" and she is supported by Daphne Goldrick, Neil McLeod and Stuart Baker in leads. Jack Droy, Murial Ontkane and Kitty Dutcher complete the cast with Victoria actor, Harold Bellamy, who will be remembered as the father in Victoria Theatre Guild's production of "The Winslow Boy" last spring.

GRUBER CONDUCTS

Not Dominated by European Etiquette

I have been taken to task by a well-informed musician over my column about the concertmaster and symphony etiquette, and your resultant response to it, at the last concert. Apparently, in Europe the concertmaster does not receive applause, either for himself nor on behalf of the orchestra. Therefore, my critic claimed, it follows that this is incorrect procedure everywhere.

Unfortunately I do not see the logic in this argument. Besides, my taker-of-exception was not 100 per cent right. Because

I know that the venerable, bearded figure of Arnold Rose, erstwhile concertmaster to the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra for many years, commanded, possibly, exaggerated response from the public to the point of awe.

One had the feeling that people would almost like to have arisen in their seats to mark Rose's appearance on stage; he was held in nearly as great a veneration by the various great conductors who officiated at the Vienna Philharmonic concerts.

The story was that the conductor bowed first to Rose and then to the audience.

However, this may be a digression off the point—the gentleman in question may be generally correct in claiming that concertmasters and, therefore, the playing personnel of orchestras, do not rate public acknowledgement in Europe.

Well, I do not see that this is either here or there. We should be ill-advised to ape everything European over here without discrimination.

Europe has blown itself to bits twice in the space of 25 years. It is obvious not always wise for us here to follow her example.

Incidentally, orchestral tradition on the North American Continent is only imperfectly younger than in Europe—the Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra of New York is the second oldest establishment of its kind in the world—its only senior being the London Philharmonic Society. For that matter, the Vienna Philharmonic is younger than both of the aforementioned.

Tradition here has decreed that the playing personnel of orchestras merit their own welcome from the public, through the concertmaster.

I see no reason to forbid it on the grounds that Europe does otherwise.

Professor Hisecks explains how Austria avoided the division suffered by Germany and why, after being "liberated" in the spring of 1945, it has not regained its full freedom and sovereignty for so many years.

TWO for the SHOW

By PHIL LEE

AA (Oscar Class) BB (Worthwhile)
A (Don't Miss) B (For Rainy Days)
C (To put in time)

(A) "INFERNO" (Capitol) — After saying the most miserable things about three-dimensional pictures—or to be more factual—three-dimensional stories—this column has to reverse itself for Twentieth Century-Fox's Technicolor thriller, "Inferno."

This reason for this, of course, will be obvious, once you have seen it: Up until now, with possibly one exception, ("Man in the Dark"), 3-D movies have been hastily arranged slap-bang affairs cast out to us, the gullible public, to snare and trap our honest-earned bucks.

All they did do, however, was make us ill and alarmed and kept us away from the box office whenever we saw we were going to have to wear glasses, dodge things and pay premium prices.

Actually there is nothing wrong with 3-Ds, so far as the media is concerned. But nothing could make up for the trashy stories. In "Inferno," however, it is quite a different matter because the story would have been a good one no matter how it was photographed and that is exactly the way it should be.

The plot, in brief: Millionaire playboy Robert Ryan is left to die in the desert by scheming, money-loving wife Rhonda Fleming and her lover William Lundigan. For almost 50 per cent of the picture Ryan is shown wandering about the desert striving to keep alive in a torrid spot where money can't buy a drink of water or a square meal. To make matters worse he breaks a leg and has to set it and put splints on it. How he contrives to stay alive makes most interesting viewing.

Be it to the everlasting credit of Director Roy Baker and "Inferno's" author Francis Cockrell, they skillfully controlled what might have developed into a hammy and awkward situation by imbuing desperate hero Ryan with a wry sense of humor when really there was no humor called for. It was this note that lifted the play from the ranks of mediocrity to a plane where one doesn't mind paying a bit extra for the glasses or that it is in 3-D at all.

THE LAST SUPPER OF LEONARDO DA VINCI. By Lumen Winter and Harrison Kinney. Coward-McCann. ## THE BIG DAY

Grey Cup Away in Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Grey Cup day dawned bright and clear in Toronto and for thousands of football-mad fans this was it — the day they've waited for.

Festivities began early in the lobby of the Royal York Hotel where most of the Winnipeg Blue Bomber supporters were concentrated.

A corps of Bomberette girls in blue and gold skirts paraded out led by a drum and bugle band on their way to the big parade through the city. The parade started shortly before 10 a.m. with scores of floats and almost as many bands.

A bunch of hockey players from Montreal paraded with a big banner, singing "Alouette" — winding up with "a la Bombers."

Competition was keen for tickets to the big game between Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Hamilton Tiger-Cats as thousands of fans poured in from out of town.

WOMEN FANIT

The crush of ticket-seekers at the Winnipeg club's office in the Royal York was so great that two women fainted and security officers threatened to close the office.

They changed their minds when the crowd nearly rioted at the suggestion.

Scalpels were few in most hotels. One asked—but didn't receive—$75 for a $6 ticket.

Hamilton fans appeared in army gas capes striped with yellow and black.

In the Royal York lobby a "Grey Cup special" of the Winnipeg Tribune was being distributed. The banner line was "Here Come the Bombers." The four-page paper was all about the Bombers—pictures, stories and thumbnail sketches.

In the parade itself, one float bore a huge gill figure of a football player in action. On another float perched high on a silver slipper was Miss Blue Bomber.

EARLY START

In the hotel lobby, Tom Johnson, defenseman of Montreal Canadiens, and a native of Bal-dur, Man., was surrounded by many he knew.

"What a night!" said Johnson. "A band started up at 6 a.m. on our floor."

The parade with 30 floats brightly-colored floats in red, white, yellow and orange, started at 10 a.m. in downtown Toronto.

It got a feminine kickoff. About 30 drum majorettes in brief white costumes—some of them Winnipegers—started leading gaily-colored floats and trucks.

Hundreds of kids and grown-ups, some wearing steepons and coonskin hats lined the route. Scores of police blocked off intersections, giving the parade the green light as it headed toward city hall and a welcome from Mayor Allan Lamport and other city officials of Toronto and Winnipeg.

NO TRAFFIC SNARLS

There were no traffic snarls. Many stores were closed this morning and shoppers were few and far between.

The skirl of two pipe bands mixed with the blare of high school and army bugle bands as square dancing westerners got the fancy of the crowd. Then came a giant float saddled and ridden by a glamour girl in a 10-gallon hat.

Winnipeg floats with industrial themes were followed by Miss Grey Cup—Joanne Baird, representing Saskatchewan Roughriders—riding in the black and red English convertible presented to her last night.

Tired V's Win Over Kamloops To Split Lead

By the Canadian Press

The iron-legged Pentiction V's, showing no signs of any ill-effects from a strenuous schedule, Friday night clipped Kamloops Elks 4-2 to move into a first-place tie in the Okanagan Senior Hockey League.

V's were at home for the first time following a swing around the brother Western International Hockey League, and wasted no time re-establishing good relations with the home fans. They jumped into a fast 3-2 lead by the end of the first period and went out in front 4-2 by the end of the second.

The third period was scoreless. Jack McDonald, Kevin Conway and two Warwick brothers—Bill and Dick—scored for the winner while Ken Ulyott and Don Carlson scored for Kamloops.

Pentiction plays its eighth game in nine nights tonight when the team journeys to Kamloops for a return match.

In other league action, Vernon Canadians will try to get a grip on undisputed first place and pull away from Pentiction with a win over Kelowna Packers in Vernon.

Meanwhile, in the Western International League, Nelson will be at Kimberley and Trail at Spokane.

Just One of Many

Seattle Bombers' Marcel Pelletier (00) was the target for the night as Victoria Cougars poured in on the often unprotected goalie to dent the net seven times in their 7-1 victory at Memorial Arena Friday night. Officially Cougars blasted 38 pucks at the Seattle net-minder and he came up with 31 saves, some of them definitely on the lucky side. Here, Pelletier makes a last-second attempt to stop shot off the stick of Cougars' Sam Bettio, right, who scored 10 goals and picked up one assist on the Cats latest scoring spree.

Underdog Gallardo Ends Perez' Streak

NEW YORK (UP)—Featherweight Dave Gallardo, a gay caballero from Los Angeles, declared today, "I'll ride him again—just like a horse."

Swarthy Dave made that statement immediately after he had been paired for a third "rubber" match at Madison Square Garden on Jan. 1 with young Lulu Perez of Brooklyn, with whom he evened the count Friday night.

Gallardo, a 7-5 underdog, persistently pressed Lulu, felled him twice and won a unanimous 10-round decision in their nationally televised and broadcast return bout before 3,378 at the garden.

STREAK SNAPPED

He snapped Lulu's winning streak at 23 victories by preventing him from using his superior punching power at long range. Lulu's long-range punches had stopped Gallardo at the end of the eighth round on Sept. 4 because of face cuts.

Gallardo, scaling 129½ pounds to Lulu's 126, certainly took leaves from the books of champions Rocky Marciano and Bobo Olson as he slid in with his face.

KINS FACE JAYCEES IN INTERCITY BASKETBALL

Victoria Kins will probably be given their sternest test of the season when they meet University of British Columbia Jaycees at Oak Bay Junior High School gym tonight.

Kins recently defeated New Westminster Moderns, regarded as the weak sisters of the mainland league, by two points.

However, they performed the feat without the services of Norm Baker and big Johnny Clark, both of whom will be in strip for King tonight.

Chinese Students and McMorrans, of the Saanich and Suburban League, clash in a preliminary contest at 7:30.

THIS IS THE TEAM THAT SLEW BRITAIN

Hungarian Rhapsody of Soccer

Wednesday, Nov. 25, was a day of mourning for the British sporting public when the cream of England's football talent were humiliated by a skilful team of amateurs from Hungary.

No doubt readers are wondering of the composition of this side which so outraged British pride, so perhaps, this week it should prove interesting to discuss their style of play and mention some of their better known players.

The international soccer world was quite aware of Hungary's capabilities after they completely "walked" away with the 1952 Olympic championship at Helsinki.

Apart from their preliminary tussle with Rumania, who used brown in a vain effort to best brains, they beat Italy

3-0, Turkey 7-1, Sweden 6-0, and finally Yugoslavia 2-0.

The team as it is known today is practically the same that represented the country at the Olympics. The backbone of the team consists of half-a-dozen Honved (the army team) players, and it was these players who performed so memorably last Wednesday.

Although Hungary has taken all international fixtures seriously, she regarded her earlier matches this year as "tuning-up" games for the game against England. Thus, the traditional meeting with Austria at Vienna, and the matches against Czechoslovakia and Sweden at Budapest gave sole selector and team manager, Gustav Sebes, ample opportunity to construct his best possible squad.

The state controlled side is kept in top condition and the English plan of relying on pace and hard tackling came undone. The Wembley crowd was delighted with the traditional artistry presented by the Hungarians. The way they mixed close passes with sweeping transferences to and from the wings at high-height captivated all onlookers. Perhaps it was the beautiful precision of these passes and the way in which the players positioned themselves when not in possession of the ball that was the cause of the adulation showered on them by the vast English crowd.

Walter Winterbottom, England's manager, adopted his favorite plan against European sides—that of massing the English defence in the penalty area with long-quick counter-thrusts down the wings—and it proved disastrous, allowing the Hungarians with their superior ball control to mount their attacks with little or no interference.

Gustav Sebes, believes in "all-round" forwards, and his plan of finding five men who can play all five positions equally well certainly proved profitable. His two inside-forwards, Puskas and Kocsis, are in world class, the first named being the Hungarian nominee for the world's finest player and the latter being comparable to Dixie Dean with his ability to head a ball. Puskas in the centre spot and Hidegkuti on the right-wing proved they know how to put the ball in the net in recent club and international games.

In Boszisk at right-half they have a schemer deluxe who burns past a seemingly defenseless Bomber club, which never reach its capable playing standard.

Cougars sprayed shots from nearly every angle possible, some entering the net, others being cleared away from the goal-line, some bouncing off the goal posts and yet others luckily hitting Pelletier.

The club played a solid two-way game, back-checking well and giving goalie Red Almas good protection, except on one occasion. Almas was called on to stop only 14 shots.

The Ed Dorohoy-Sam Bettio-Alex Kuzma line turned in the most polished performance, scoring four of the seven goals in on Pelletier in never-ending waves past a seemingly defenseless Bomber club, which never reach its capable playing standard.

Nightmare for Marcel, Sweet Dream for Cats

Cougars Explode for Big Win Over Seattle

Victoria 7, Seattle 1

By RON COULTER

It's a good bet that Marcel Pelletier had nightmares

Pelletier, the qualified guardian of Seattle Bombers' nets in the Western Hockey League, was easily the busiest man on the ice at Memorial Arena Friday night as Victoria Cougars swarmed over Seattle to post a convincing 7-1 victory.

The win for Cougars, which was deserved in every sense of the word, moved the club from sixth place into a deadlock with Saskatoon Quakers for fourth place, five points up on last-place Edmonton Flyers and two ahead of Seattle.

Skating fast and turning in a strong performance before 4,285 fans, Cougars could do little wrong as they swarmed in on Pelletier in never-ending waves past a seemingly defenseless Bomber club, which never reach its capable playing standard.

Cougars sprayed shots from nearly every angle possible, some entering the net, others being cleared away from the goal-line, some bouncing off the goal posts and yet others luckily hitting Pelletier.

The club played a solid two-way game, back-checking well and giving goalie Red Almas good protection, except on one occasion. Almas was called on to stop only 14 shots.

The Ed Dorohoy-Sam Bettio-Alex Kuzma line turned in the most polished performance, scoring four of the seven goals in on Pelletier in never-ending waves past a seemingly defenseless Bomber club, which never reach its capable playing standard.

Cougars held a 4-0 first period lead, upped the margin to 5-0 at the end of the second and then scored twice in the final session against a single tally by Seattle.

Cougars revealed their intentions early, Gene Achymichuk slapping in a rebound from Bill Sinnett's blue-line drive at the 50-second mark. Stan Maxwell started the play by passing to Sinnett.

Walter Clune scored Victoria's second goal with a long shot on a play with Colin Kilburn and Doug Anderson after four minutes of play had passed.

Bill Davidson picked up a tripping penalty at the 8:14 mark and while he was serving sentence Bettio got his first of two goals.

Dorohoy passed to Maxwell, who was the fourth forward on the power play at the blue line and Maxwell blasted a shot. Bettio deflecting the puck into the net. The puck danced on the goal line before Kuzma made sure by giving it an added slap, however, it was ruled as Bettio's goal.

Ross Lowe scored the final first-period marker on a long drive, Dorohoy and Kuzma picking up assists.

Goals Come Like Rain

Cougars notched one other goal that period but it was disallowed, Bill Sinnett pushing the puck with his hand as he slid into the net.

Kuzma gave Victoria a 5-0 lead midway in the second period, combining with Dorohoy and Bettio.

Bettio scored his second early in the third canto on a slap shot from the left side, Dorohoy again getting an assist.

Wayne Brown spoiled Almas' shutout bid at the 14:11 mark when he took a pass from Guyle Fiedler on a three-man break

Reynolds in Edmonton for Walls Bout

EDMONTON, Alta. (UP)—Heavyweight Bernie Reynolds of Clifftide, N.J., started work-outs today in preparation for a December 4 bout with Canadian heavyweight champion Earl Walls.

Reynolds arrived by plane Friday night and promoter Jack Berry lined him up training facilities in the same gym that Walls uses.

"We have taken this fight because Bernie thinks a win over Walls will establish him among the top contenders," Reynolds' manager said.

Once highly rated for a record which includes 32 knockouts in 66 fights, Reynolds was dropped from the top 10 recently after losses to Ezzard Charles, Joe Louis and Rocky Marciano.

In Walls' last fight he knocked out Joe Kahut in two rounds here last month.

TOLEDO, O. (UP)—Johnny Cunningham of Baltimore, Md., and Carmen Basilio of Canastota, N.Y., meet tonight in a scheduled 10-round, nationally televised welterweight match which may be a stepping stone to a shot at Kid Gavilan's crown.

NO UNLUCKY 13 HERE

Canuck Streak Remains Intact

Vancouver 3, Edmonton 2

Edmonton Flyers did their best to make it "unlucky 13" in Vancouver Friday night but the league-leading Vancouver Canucks held on for a 3-2 victory in the feature of a Western Hockey League double bill.

Vancouver's win was the 13th straight time Canucks have gone undefeated on home ice. After taking a 3-0 lead over Edmonton, opening a coast tour, Canucks saw Flyers find their wings with less than five minutes left in the third period to score two goals.

FOUR-POINT LEAD

The win moved Canucks four points in front of second-place Calgary Stampede, while Edmonton remained mired in the seven-team loops' cellar.

Canucks took a 1-0 lead in the first period and added two more goals in the second.

Dale Sweeney slammed in a bouncing puck for the first goal, with Fred Brown sneaking one in from a sharp angle for the second, and defenseman Mid Houghton slipping by the Edmonton defense and firing a screened 35-footer for the final goal.

Newcomer Marcel Bonin scored Edmonton's first goal from a scramble in wide-open play, and Hannigan made it 3-2 on a rink-length rush. Flyers pulled goalie Glen Hall in the final minute and a Vancouver shot on the open net from centre ice was disallowed because of an offside.

Tonight, Edmonton moves to New Westminster, Seattle takes on Vancouver and Saskatoon visits Calgary.

Still More About Jai Alai

I don't know whether to feel flattered or flattened. Seemingly, 50 words (two weeks ago) about the fastest game in the world, Jai Alai, are not enough. "Because you aren't very interested," a reader digs, "does not mean everyone else feels the same." The customer is not always right, but since it is only 27 days to Christmas, . . .

Jai Alai is a Basque game played all over the world. The arena is called the "Fronton"; the playing court, "cancha."

George Lane

The rules of the game are most stringent. Any player who breaks them runs the risk of losing his pension and of being barred for life from every "Fronton" in the world.

Half the Back Room Boys are currently engaged in a "Hate Hobson Week." That's what happens when you hint that the local spectator is somewhat blood-thirsty.

"What about the time everyone went out to Pat Bay to meet the Shamrocks?" they moaned. Well, what about it? Mass hysteria, that's all. Only a few nights before, when the Rocks were playing on the home pitch, the fans were doing their utmost to encourage their idols to "molder the bums."

Bumped into a self-styled football fan recently who said "Lousy game on Saturday, wasn't it? If it hadn't have been for that scrap between Joe Blamp (our own dear blue-eyed Joe Blamp) and Willy Conkin (that dirty son of a galoot) the game wouldn't have been worth seeing would it?"

Victoria Table Tennis Association club champions will be determined on Dec. 3, 4 and 5. It's well worth the trip to see these lads and lasses in action—remembering that the present Western Canadian champions are of their ranks. After diligent and time absorbing research, Laurie Greenwood, club treasurer, presented me with documentary evidence of the club's historical strides. It makes good reading and, thanks to Laurie, it shall find a resting place in this corner.

According to secretary Bob Macmurchie, badminton league play is "going very well, indeed." This, after last year's shambles, is good news. There are still cases of players being in their wrong division; some too good for the one they're in, some not good enough, but this will be remedied after Christmas. With the full blessing of club representatives, impersonal adjustments will be made.

The Saanich Badminton Tourney, while producing few surprises, has many a shuttle fan scratching his head. At the time of writing, George Lane, Vancouver Island's Mr. Badminton, has not officially been declared winner of "the whole danged works" but unless a major miracle occurs, he will be. No one would wish to belittle George's effort, far from it, but as he himself is prone to ask, "where are all the youngsters?" Wherever they are, mark this well, George has been the head man in these parts for 17 years.

ATHLETE OF WEEK

Whitey Gets Votes In Vancouver, Too

Lacrosse star Whitey Severson not only leads the voting for the Victoria Daily Times Amateur Athlete of the Year award, but he is also running third in the Vancouver Province's B.C. Amateur Athlete of the Year balloting.

And if local fans keep backing the blond play-making captain of the Victoria Shamrocks as they have been to date, there appears not much doubt that he will add at least the Times Trophy to laurels already gained.

Severson has been piling up a lion's share of the votes every week and now holds a huge lead over all other local amateur stars who have been named since the contest started.

SPILLER SECOND
Severson again topped weekly ballots this week, but was given a close run by soccer star Lionel Speller, who polled only one less vote than Severson. Another Shamrock star, Arnie Ferguson, is also in contention but failed to keep pace with Severson and Speller.

Anyone is eligible to vote. All they have to do is clip the accompanying ballot, fill it in and mail it to the Amateur Athlete of the Year, Sports Department, Victoria Daily Times.

The Story of the Three Bears

Two Victorians with three black bear, they dropped this week in the Cherry Point section of the Duncan-Cowichan Bay area. "Heard they were around there and decided to have a little different hunting for a change," said Lorne Lewis, 1213 Clovelly Terrace, right. On the left is his shooting pal, George L.

Davis, 333 Gorge Road West. Accompanying them on the trip was George Hautin, from North Battleford, Sask. Trio went out at 5 a.m. Thursday and had bagged the bear by 7 a.m. B.C. Game Department offers no bounty for bear, but they are legal targets throughout the year.

Hey Fellas---How About Helping Poor Cy Out?

By RON COULTER

Wonder how Cy feels? Veteran Cy Wallis burned up the alleys in Gibson's Bowladrome Commercial Fivepin League Wednesday night, racking up singles games of 331, 259 and 360 in setting a new league triple mark of 950. But he probably felt a little downhearted at that.

Despite Cy's scorching effort, his team—Tip Top Tailors—only took one point. The next highest man on the team rolled a 512 total, the other three failing to hit over the 500 mark.

Free Lancers came up with the biggest surprise of the night by taking first-round honors.

The Hailah Hakah team looked like a cinch to win. However, the league leaders lost four points to Coca Cola and Free Lancers took four from Victoria Laundry to leave the three teams deadlocked for top spot. Free Lancers getting the nod on the strength of rolling the highest team triple—a new record of 3,868.

Bud Baldwin, 872; Norm Cain, 812; Charlie Pugh, 800; Low White, 787; Phil Smith, 766; Bill Odgers, 760; Alex McKeachie, 752; and Al McHaffie, with 751, rolled other top three.

The first round of the Capital City Singles Classic concluded Thursday night, and Jerry Devine and Don Corbett gained playoff berths from the "A" section, while Fred Mair and Jim Nott reached the finals by their respective first and second place finishes in the "B" division.

Geoff Worrall, 856; Nott, 819; Doug Neff, 777; Bruce Robinson, 763; Don Corbett, 748; Cee McRae, 733; Bill McKinnon, 721; and Devine, at 704, rolled leading triples.

Worrall had top single-game of 327.
Ken Smith paced the men's commercial section with an 846 total, while Art Marchant, 737; Herb Chandler, 724; Al Leech, 716; Bob Corbett, 707, and Phil Ray, with 704, followed.

Dave Lambrick shot a 744 and Des Nex added a 701 in the automotive division.
Marge Snellie was tops in the Plumbers' League with a 725 total.

Joan White led the women's Wednesday circuit with a 666 triple. Olive Patterson hit for a 638 total and Mrs. Joseph rolled 604.

Low White, of the Single Pins, topped the mixed five-pin play at Gibson's with a 704 triple. Sandy Sandahl turned in a 298 single, while Irene Moore was high for the women with a 318 single and 685 total.

Ray Passmore claimed the leading total of 815 in the financial division.

In tenpin-play, Bill Templeton set the pace in Gibson's commercial section with a 605 triple. Ken Munn, 600; Will Webb, 593; Cas Sapala, 565; Roy Bridger, 564; Connie McBeth, 562; Len Scott, 561; Chuck Bennett, 554, and Alec Quinn at 550 rolled other notables.

Len Parsons had high single of 235, followed by Webb, 231, 211; George Savory, 223; Munn, 219-214; Quinn, 213; McClement and Sid Beane at 211.

Golden Loaf Bakery trundled a 1,056 team single and 3,069 triple.

Webb, 580; Bill Norris, 566, and Bill Coates with 562 claimed leading triples in the senior league. Norris racked up leading single of 227 and Coates added a 211.

Big League Hill Aces Near All-Time Greats

NEW YORK (AP)—Brooklyn's Carl Erskine and Mel Parnell of Boston Red Sox, two of major league baseball's 20-game winners last season, have moved well up among the lifetime pitching leaders as a result of their fine performances.

Erskine, who finished with a 20-6 record for the Dodgers, shows an over-all slate of 71 victories and 34 setbacks, 676 for his six years in the National League. He ranks second to the Giants' Sal Maglie's 699, 7231, figures compiled by the Associated Press showed today.

Parnell now is second in the American League to the Yankees' Vic Raschi. Mel, with 21-8 during the last campaign, has 111 wins and 59 defeats for 653 while Raschi, 13-6 last year, shows a gaudy 706, with 120 triumphs and only 50 losses.

Flip Stands on His Own Two Feet

By OSCAR FRALEY
NEW YORK (UP) — Al Rosen of the Cleveland Indians proved this week that he has big feet.

Back in 1950, when he took over third base from the popular Ken Keltner, one of the latter's fans sidled up to Rosen and said scornfully: "That's a pretty big pair of shoes you're trying to fill, young fellow."

Rosen, known to his teammates as "Flip," because of self-confidence which approaches cockiness, grinned and shot back: "I've got pretty big feet."

That self-appraisal was substantiated fully this week as Rosen was named the American League's most valuable player. And it also goes to show the effectiveness of the old saying that if at first you don't succeed, try and try again.

Because when Rosen first adopted baseball as a career, back in 1942, he was told that he never would make a ballplayer. At that time, "Flip" tried out for the Boston Red Sox farm club at Danville, Va., and his debut was far from spectacular.

A hitch in the army, including service on the beach during the invasion of Okinawa, interrupted his diamond career. But when he returned, Rosen showed the doubters that he had prospects. He was the Minor League Player of the Year at Pittsfield in 1946, the most valuable player at Kansas City in 1949.

Yet three times Rosen was sent back down to the minors by the Indians before he made the grade by filling Keltner's shoes at third base.

Since he took over, however, he has showed ever-increasing promise. In his rookie year of 1950, the man whose nose varies in contour from week to week because of a flat dozen busted schnozzles, led the American League in home runs with 37.

In 1952 he paced the American League in runs batted in with 105.

It is a compliment, therefore, to both the world champion New York Yankees and also to Rosen that he was named most valuable player of the American League in 1953—and by a unanimous vote for the first time in the history of the award.

As for the Yankees, it is to their credit that they won the all-time honors of five in a row without a big gun. As for Rosen, imagine winning unanimously against a team with that sort of a record. He earned it, by leading the majors with 145 runs batted in and pacing the American League with 43 homers and 115 runs as well as finishing second to Mickey Vernon of Washington in batting by one slim point, .336 to .337.

Rosen credits it to another department in which he had to "try again"—this one marital. He was married in 1948 at Kansas City but it didn't take. Last fall he wed Terry Blümburg, a Miami co-ed.

"Being able to come home, see someone smiling, eat a home-cooked meal—and relax," he says, "is the secret."

But Al the "Flip" also can credit those big feet and his determination. Without them he'd be just another happily married ball player.

One Year—That's All

New Brooklyn Dodger manager, Walter Alston, left, signs his 1954 contract as Dodger president Walter O'Malley holds up a finger to make sure everyone understands that the pact is for one year only. Charlie Drensen, Alston's predecessor, was fired because he insisted on a three-year contract, something the Dodger brass objected to. (NEA Telephoto.)

Hawks Call Gelineau To Fill Hole in Goal

By The Canadian Press
The "vacancy" sign was removed from Chicago Black Hawks' net Friday. The new tenant is Jack Gelineau, net-minder of Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League for the last two seasons.

Gelineau was called up by coach Sid Abel against Detroit Red Wings for a home-and-home National Hockey League series this week-end.

Abel ejected the last tenant, Jean Marois, also of the Aces, after an unsatisfactory performance in which he let in 11 goals in two Hawk losses to Toronto and Montreal.

Gelineau, voted the league's outstanding rookie in 1949-50 when he played for the Boston Bruins, is filling in for Hawks' regular goalie, Al Rollins, ill with chickenpox and complications following two teeth extractions.

With only three wins and three ties in 26 starts, Hawks trail New York Rangers by six points.

The Wings have boosted themselves into second place, three points behind the leading Canadiens.

However, the Canadiens, with two games scheduled—against Toronto tonight and New York Sunday—appear slated to stay ahead of the pack.

The largest crowd of the season is expected to jam Maple Leaf Gardens tonight as thousands of persons in Toronto for the Canadian football final plan to take in the hockey game.

Kennel Club Officials Expect Record Entry

Victoria Kennel Club officials are anticipating their best event on record when they present a parlor show next Wednesday in the Crystal Garden.

"Our optimism stems from the many enquiries and entries we have already received," said Fred Dodsword.

Can Clinch Title

NEW YORK (CP) — The unbeaten Cleveland Browns will seek to clinch their eighth straight divisional championship Sunday when they meet visiting Chicago Cardinals.

A win Sunday would wrap up the National Football League's Eastern Conference for Browns, who have taken all nine of their games this year. The Cardinals have suffered eight losses and tied one.

Appointment of Mrs. Madeleine Pickup, London, Eng., to judge all breeds of dogs entered has had a stimulating effect on fanciers, he said.

In addition to the usual classes—and in view of the large number of dogs on the island that have won championship laurels—a special variety class has been added.

A "green" class will be held for dogs of all ages and breeds never shown before.

An impressive array of prizes is offered competitors. Majority are for puppies.

Doors will open to the public at 7 p.m. Entries will be taken from that time until judging commences at 8.

For further information telephone the secretary at E2536.

England Building for Better Olympic Team

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON (CP)—Early in the new year the English Amateur Athletic Association will issue a "short list" of athletes with priority for the British Empire Games team being sent to Vancouver next July.

Scotland has already done so, naming 40 athletes in most of the nine B.E.G. events. They will get special grooming until the final team is named.

"We don't need to start that early because we haven't the same shortage of training facilities," says English team manager W. R. Truelove. But the same practice will be followed early in 1954, with a view to making the final selection of the 98 athletes easier.

How good they will be depends, as Truelove says, on whether the best can go. "After all, these fellows are amateurs with jobs."

It depends also on how far Britain's athletic rebuilding program has progressed toward the eventual goal of a better showing at the 1956 Olympics than the winless crew managed last year.

England's apparent strength lies in a clutch of young track men who are best at the mile and over. Her strength in boxing, swimming, rowing and the like hasn't caught the headlines the same way, although it may be good enough for Commonwealth competition.

But if the best are taken,

England may be assured of gold medals for runners like Roger Bannister, Gordon Pirie, Chris Chataway, Jim Peters, Bill Nankville and perhaps others.

Britain established world records for the mile relay and the 1,500-meters relay this year. Long-legged Pirie is tops in the three and six-mile events on his summer's showing.

Bannister in the mile will get a run from John Landy of Australia, or vice versa. Both he and Chataway can drop down from the mile. Pirie runs a pretty fair mile, too, and so does Nankville. Peters is world record holder in the marathon.

There are, of course, lots of other events where England may fall down. But 1954 is a test year because the European championships follow the Empire Games by a matter of days and training will be intensive for the athletes who probably will see action on both continents.

Like the Olympics, the Empire Games produce only unofficial national winners. Australia and New Zealand placed one-two last time at Auckland in 1950 and England was third above Canada.

SHIPPING, CPA DECISIONS DEFENDED

Chevrier Backs Government Action

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier said Friday that the federal government's decisions against subsidies for the deep-sea merchant fleet and an east-west air cargo license for Canadian Pacific Airlines were the only ones possible.

He defended the government's decision, announced earlier this month, not to subsidize operations of a deep-sea merchant fleet under the Canadian flag.

He also reviewed in the Commons the circumstances surrounding the cabinet's decision not to grant CPA a license for scheduled air cargo services between Vancouver and Toronto-Montreal via Edmonton and The Pas, Man.

He said the government decided against the shipping subsidy because the 50-odd Canadian ships were obsolete and the cost of operation was higher compared with vessels under other flags. In addition, there had been a general decline in cargoes available.

Howard Green (PC, Vancouver-Quadra) interjected: "I presume that means you are going to let the merchant navy die out."

Mr. Chevrier replied: "That is putting words in my mouth. There should be no surprise at the decision, he said."

Subsidies would cost $5,000,000 annually. Another $200,000,000 would be needed to modernize the fleet and at least half that must come from the government.

Referring to the CPA application, Mr. Chevrier said Opposition charges that the government is retarding "introduction" of an air cargo service are not true. Trans-Canada Air Lines already operated air-cargo services.

He said the decision hinged on whether enough cargo could be moved to justify the carriers. In the U.S., one of three national air-cargo carriers has failed within two years of being licensed and the other two had sought to merge and raise their cargo rates 25 per cent.

Cadet Marksmen Deliver Turkeys By Target Sale

A novel turkey shoot was held at Work Point Barracks Friday by the Independent Order of Foresters cadets.

The targets were divided into slices like a pie, and slices were sold for 50 cents each. The person having the slice registering the most hits won a turkey.

In charge of firing was Lieut. Fred Potheringham, assisted by Dick Bosence, Cye Birley supervised the demonstrations by the cadet drill troops.

Turkey winners were: W. Parkinson, Dietram Zell, Bernice C. Taylor, Mrs. W. Barker, A. J. Webster, Alex Millar, James Sobuerin, Mrs. W. R. Young, J. Fitzgerald, Teddy Gorse, Mrs. V. Gadsby, Tom Kershaw, C. P. Smith, H. G. Painter, R. Swartfiger, Barbara Andrew, S. Evans, Rose Smith, R. Chaplin, C. B. Wilson, Joy Smith, K. Vernon, Mrs. Grace Hunter, Don Hoshal, Mrs. W. ### PIANIST PAIR PLAYED POULENC AND WON WITHOUT PREPARATION

Concerning one of the two-piano numbers Robin and Winnifred Wood will play Monday night at First United Church, Mr. Wood has an amusing recollection. Before they were married and while students at the Royal Academy they decided to enter a duet competition for which they prepared the Pouleuc Sonata. However, when they arrived on the scene of the competition they discovered this was a du-piano competition and not for one piano, four hands, as they had anticipated.

However, after consultation with each other, they decided to adapt the Pouleuc to the two-piano medium, did so on the spot—and won!

At Monday's concert they will both be heard in solos and will also play the Mozart D Major Sonata for two pianos and Rachmaninoff Suite No. 2 in C minor. The last concert they will give in Victoria before leaving for England, it is under auspices of the Cerebral Palsy Association.

GALLUP POLL OF CANADA

B.C. People Know Most About Senator McCarthy

The name of Senator Joseph McCarthy, which has been popping in and out of Canadian news recently, is known to almost two-thirds of the Canadian public, but less than half can give any indication of a deeper knowledge than just the name. Among the comparatively small number who know something about him, opinion is fairly evenly divided.

Just before the request from a U.S. Senate sub-committee for access to Canada's spy witness, Igor Gouzenko, and the result, heated trans-border debate, the Gallup Poll was assessing the knowledge of Canadians about the Wisconsin senator, and attitudes towards his activities in investigating Red espionage in high places.

Canadians were first asked by poll opinion reporters from St. John's to Victoria:

"Have you ever heard of Senator Joseph R. McCarthy or not?"

Nationally, 65 per cent claimed to have heard of McCarthy. On a regional basis this percentage ranged from a high of over 80 per cent who had heard of him, in British Columbia, to a low of 40 per cent who had heard of him in the Province of Quebec.

But this fairly high national percentage who claimed to have heard of a Senator McCarthy shrank when asked:

"In what connection have you heard of him?"

Ten per cent of total sample named McCarthy's Un-American Activities Committee investigations into Communist spy rings.

Nine per cent described him simply as "Anti-Communist," "Red Baiter," etc.

Five per cent merely said he was "a United States Senator" or "a U.S. politician."

Four per cent described him as "a political fire brand," "a trouble maker."

Three per cent said they had heard him speak on the radio, or seen him on TV.

Two per cent thought of him in terms of his recent marriage. One per cent described him as "anti-British," "an enemy of Britain."

Nine per cent gave vague, general answers (e.g., "something to do with Communism").

Twenty-two per cent couldn't recall in what connection they had heard of him.

This adds up to the 65 per cent of the public who claimed to have heard him.

In his own country, reports the American Institute of Public Opinion, public opinion has shifted to the point where disapproving attitudes towards the Wisconsin senator outweigh approving attitudes.

FT. MONMOUTH INVESTIGATION SCORED BY ARMY BRIGADIER

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UP)—West Point cadets had a warning from a retired brigadier-general today that Sen. Joseph A. McCarthy's investigation of the Fort Monmouth, N.J., radar laboratory was "a most dangerous threat to the morale and efficiency of the army."

The attack against the Wisconsin senator was made in a speech to 150 cadets and officers by Brig. Gen. Telford Taylor, former chief prosecutor at the Nuremberg war crimes trials who is now an attorney in New York.

Taylor said also that President Eisenhower, Secretary of Army Robert T. Stevens and other high officials "have failed to stand up against this shameful abuse of congressional investigating power."

Sidney Chorus Features Native Composer's Works

A concert staged by the Sidney-North Saanich Musical Society Thursday night in St. Mark's Parish Hall attracted an enthusiastic audience.

Erie V. Edwards, LRSM, ARCT, was director of the evening's program and Mrs. D. H. Filby, ATCM, accompanied the choral selections. The choir performed two of Mr. Edwards' own works, "Song of Remembrance," and "Glory to God," Schumann.

Mrs. Peggy Walton Packard, soprano, and Frank J. Martin, tenor, each were recalled for encores after their appearances. Mrs. F. D. Till, LRAM, GRSM, pianist, held her audience enthralled with carnival music by Schumann.

For Economical Construction

DESIGN OF THE MONTH—Just off the architect's draughting table and as fresh as Spring itself, here is a new two-bedroom bungalow which should prove popular with many families planning home ownership in 1954.

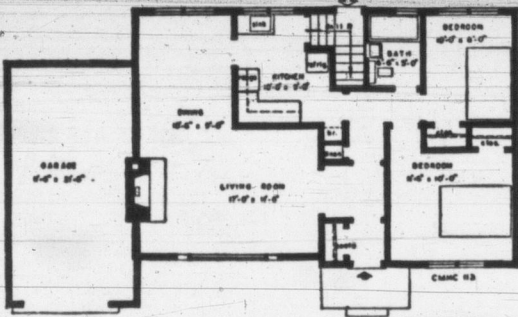

Ottawa architect M. G. Dixon has designed the house for economical construction and the utmost in living comfort. The interesting treatment of the front of the house, with its large window areas, highlighted by a flower box for color, ensures its suitability for construction in any locality.

The dimensions of the house, excluding the garage, are 36 feet by 23 feet four inches and the floor area is 828 square feet. The cubic measure is 16,145 cubic feet, excluding the garage.

Working drawings for this plan, known as design 113, are available at minimum cost from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Is it possible to raise ferns from seed?

Ferns are raised from spores (seed capsules) found on the backs of the fronds. Scatter the spores on the surface of a finely screened sand and peat moss mixture, and do not cover. Keep the pot standing in a saucer of water, cover it with a sheet of glass, and shade with a piece of paper until germination takes place.

Is there any general rule regarding the firmness of soil when potting plants?

The firmness of the plant's growth can be a guide. Plants with soft growth such as begonias require but little pressure of soil around the roots. Hard, woody plants should be firmly potted. Large bulbs are more firmly potted than small ones.

Having had no success with seed is there any other means of propagating lavender?

Three-inch cuttings of lavender may be taken in September and will make new plants by the next year. A few cuttings could be tried now, inserted in a pot of sand, kept in a cold frame over winter and planted out in late spring.

How can mealy bugs be cleaned from African violet plants?

A small camel-hair brush or a toothpick wrapped in absorbent cotton, dipped in wood alcohol (or rubbing alcohol) and touched to the bugs will kill them instantly. Lukewarm water should be rinsed over the leaves afterwards.

Q—Is there any easy way to get rid of tree stumps that are too large for one person to dig out? What about the various advertised chemical stump removers?

A—Tests made two years ago at the University of Illinois of many chemicals resulted in failure. The answer is "plenty of elbow grease" if you want to remove a tree stump.

JACK BEASTALL SAYS

Many Government Services Available to All Gardeners

These days we hear a lot about taxes and taxation. While we often complain, very few of us who do gardening avail ourselves of the many services taxes provide.

For instance, it would be interesting to know how many gardeners living on lower Vancouver Island make a regular practice of visiting the provincial museum.

Aside from the services of the director, the botanist and entomologist, the biologist, and the anthropologist, there are monthly displays of flowering native plants and a fine collection of plant specimens.

Located in the east wing of the parliament buildings, the department is accessible to all local gardeners, and may be visited between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. on weekdays, and on Sunday afternoons from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Exhibits and lectures provide the gardener with much valuable information on birds, animals and plants, and the various publications make excellent additions to the gardener's library.

In the main block of the same buildings are the offices of the Department of Horticulture. Here the provincial horticulturist, or his assistants, may be consulted on everyday gardening problems. When the gardener wishes to know the variety of an apple or potato, this is the place to seek the information, and from the vast stock of free bulletins provided by this department one can find the answer to most questions on general gardening.

ON EVERYDAY PROBLEMS

Pests are always a trouble to the gardener, but assisted by the branch of entomology, they are soon identified and brought under control. The same applies to plant diseases when the plant pathologist is consulted.

Another indispensable service which we have right close to home is the Dominion Experimental Station, on the East Saanich Road at Saanichton. Here we are able to discuss our problems with the men who conduct the experiments and who have a vast wealth of knowledge at their command.

In the grounds of the Experimental Farm the gardener can see the growing plants, compare the results of the different treatments, and learn many things about gardening which are not contained in books. The main office contains a large wall case full of federal bulletins on all phases of horticulture, agriculture, and animal husbandry. These are yours for the asking.

The gardener can also obtain free bulletins from the other experimental stations across Canada, and the excellent publications from the Queen's Printer at Ottawa. While some of the latter cost from 25 cents to one dollar, they are well worth many times their price.

To become acquainted with this type of gardening literature, one may write each of the sources mentioned for a list of available publications, and then select those which are of greatest interest.

YOUR WEEK'S WORK

Keep greenhouse glass clean inside and out. Maximum light is needed for all plants during winter.

Water geraniums (zonal pelargoniums) only enough to prevent wilting. Keep in good light, free from frost.

Azaleas in pots should have new shoots removed from around flower buds, or the latter will fail to open fully.

Those bulbs which were potted early in the fall should now be well rooted and top growth started.

Crippled and Blind, Young Writer Finds Ready Market

By GORDON FORBES
An indomitable arthritic—totally blind and crippled so badly he can move only his forearms and fingers—has broken into the writing game from his Mount St. Mary's Hospital bed.

He is Norman Lidster, 33, who has been crippled since he was 18 and a "Mount" patient for six years. He's a native of New Westminster. Norman is finding a ready market for his writings in B.C. newspapers and periodicals, and recently sold six stories to a Vancouver paper for magazine section use.

His story subjects have included coast pilots, the whaling industry, the Four-H movement, revival of ship figureheads, Dunsmuir Castle and many others.

Norman types his own manuscripts by a unique system which would quickly discourage anyone not stout-hearted.

He first does his stories with a Braille typewriter placed on a "desk" over his chest. He then checks the "copy" over, makes notes of errors.

When that job is done, he types the stories on his truly portable typewriter which is a conventional type machine. He uses one hand to type and the other to feel the Braille type.

How does he get his information?

"I put my friends to work," Norman said jokingly.

What he meant was friends help him dig up facts and figures from persons, records and encyclopedias.

Again with a grin (he does not know despair), he says he has an excellent "legman" who brings him information.

He's Bob Nicholls, a free-lancer himself, who has been like a right arm to Norman.

Norman makes up a long list of questions he needs answered and his legman, and others, dig up the facts. He also writes to officials to get data. Other patients help tremendously.

Norman comments philosophically:

"You know that's something I've found since I've been incapacitated. If you try and do something for yourself, there will be plenty of people breaking their necks wanting to help you further along."

"That would be my advice to others who are handicapped. Try and do something and you'll get lots of help. The feeling of accomplishment, of course, is wonderful. It gives you a will to live."

Norman Lidster, cheerful blind arthritic at work.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Constituents who cannot make up their minds which candidate for mayor is the best bet, may like to adopt the suggestion of A. Skinner, Victoria.

Mr. Skinner, postcards to suggest we elect all five (excuse it, six) candidates.

The plan would be to have them serve as chief magistrate for alternating months.

Those off duty would be employed as a team to keep the litter off city streets.

Writes Mr. Skinner: "It is no use the Chamber of Commerce spending money to attract tourists and have our streets nearly always in an awful mess. This is especially true of sidewalks."

The dog Punch, as a leading candidate, promises he will go along with this plan if elected.

"I will gladly pull the dust bin," he says, "if someone else will push the broom."

However, I wouldn't pay too much attention to Punch these days. He is in a very promising mood.

Waldo Skillings, one of the other candidates for mayor, paid an official call on Punch yesterday.

Ald. Skillings came round to assure Punch personally that as far as he, Skillings, is concerned, this will be a clean, honest, non-mud-slinging campaign.

Ald. Skillings said he agreed with Punch there should be no back-biting, and that he would never go around saying things behind the backs of other candidates.

"If I wish to say what I think of a candidate, I will say it to his face," said Ald. Skillings.

"That so?" said Punch, interestedly. "What do you think of me?"

Ald. Skillings thereupon told him.

My goodness!

Would you like to meet the newest Old Joke in residence in the Old Jokes' Home? (If you wouldn't, there's some good reading in Weekend.)

Many, many years ago, long before 1066, there lived a rich, powerful and autocratic king.

Now, this king was a man of many moods, in fact, very temperamental.

One evening the king was in a mellow mood, listening to the palace orchestra, and the king cried out to his secretary-treasurer: "Dig those crazy kids. Cool, man, cool. Fill up their instruments with pieces of gold."

This king was so powerful even a secretary-treasurer had to obey him, so the instruments of the orchestra were filled with pieces of gold.

The result was, the orchestra became rich, but the music sounded something awful. And the king flew into a rage, and cried: "Stuff their instruments down their throats."

Whereupon, there was great weeping and wailing, especially on the part of the piccolo player, who arose, crying: "Why did I not learn the French horn? First I get no pieces of gold—and the piccolo they CAN stuff down my throat."

(This Old Joke will not be disturbed again for another 2,000 years.)

JOBS MORE SCARCE

Island Cities Hit Doldrums In Employment

By DON INGHAM

A province-wide employment picture, drawn today by various sources, showed several hills and valleys that coincide generally with last year and indicate no great cause for alarm.

Unfortunately, Victoria and Nanaimo are in the valleys.

C. A. Mudge, National Employment Office manager here, reports the present number of jobless persons in Victoria was not reached until mid-January last winter.

According to unofficial estimates, 1,100 are out of work in Nanaimo.

HARD HIT

Construction trades have been hard hit. A slowing down of work at the Rocky Point arsenal has thrown many men out of work, and house-building here is almost non-existent.

Closing of Canadian Collieries Bright-Mine, completion of the construction program at Harmac pulp mill, and reduction of logging crews at Nanaimo coincided to produce an unemployment figure that has caused alarm in some quarters.

About 500 plywood mill employees of MacMillan & Bloedel in Vancouver and Port Alberni lost their jobs when production was cut a few weeks ago.

Delay in selling a large part of the 1953 wheat crop to Great Britain reduced the purchasing power of the Prairie farmer, who therefore could not buy the windproof B.C. plywood that he prefers as a building material.

BRIGHTER SIDE

The situation is not all bad, however, and there is reason to believe the labor situation will be as good next year as this year.

Men close to the timber industry expect adverse weather to chase workers out of the woods shortly, but foresee no great slump in sawmills.

"Shingles and plywood are soft," said one authority, "but there is no indication that the industry as a whole will not be working full swing in the spring."

Heavy construction men had a good year, and only half the unemployment recorded on the same date last year. Greatly dependent on favorable weather for their type of work, they expect a slowdown to start soon and continue until the spring.

At that time many road, dock, and bridge jobs are expected to reach the stage where construction can begin.

HANGING FIRE

E. T. Staley, secretary of the provincial council of carpenters, who travels regularly throughout the province, said that in the Victoria area a number of projects were "hanging fire" but were making no progress.

"The situation right now is not good," he said, "but the 1954 outlook is favorable. We have found, though, that 1953 has been a year when carpenters had to roam to get work, and it will continue."

Final Episode in Wright Case

Percy Wright, former assistant city clerk, was honored by City Council and City Hall staff Friday for 22½ years he spent as civic employee. Mr. Wright received gold wrist watch and a scroll signed by mayor, aldermen and staff. Mr. Wright left his job to take a seat in Legislature; was refused reinstatement when he later resigned provincial post. Mr. Wright, at Friday's ceremony, said he had no ill-feeling toward anyone at City Hall. He said he respected course of action taken by solicitor, manager and mayor in dealing with his case, because they had decided the case impartially. He paid a special tribute to Mayor Harrison, with whom he is shown above, saying mayor was "fair and honest and would do no harm to anyone." (Times Photo.)

Woman Suffers Shock In Car-Truck Crash

Shock and bruises were sustained by a city woman who was involved in a truck-car collision in Esquimalt Friday evening.

Mrs. Joan Simpson was released from St. Joseph's Hospital this morning.

Her head hit the windshield of her husband's car when it collided with a truck at the corner of Lamson and Lyle Streets. She was knocked unconscious.

Driver of the truck was W. A. Johnson, 1116 North Park, police said. Damage to the two vehicles was not immediately known.

No one was hurt when a car turned over at Ellis and Bridge Streets Friday night. But the driver, Clayton Bottoms, 1422 Harrison, paid $75 in fines in city police court this morning.

Police said that prior to the accident, Bottoms had been observed driving erratically on Bridge Street at speeds approaching 50 miles per hour. Cutting a corner to Ellis Street, the vehicle turned over.

Bottoms was convicted of dangerous driving for which he was fined $50 and of driving without a license for which he paid $25. A passenger was fined $10 on a charge of being drunk in a public place.

Another driver, Alan Timothy, 1228 Oscar, hit a fence at 1802 Oak Bay Avenue at 2 o'clock this morning and tore gut 34 feet of wire mesh and several posts. Damage to the car was slight, police said.

Medium damage was done to two cars in collision on Humboldt Street near St. Joseph's Hospital also last evening. Drivers were James McAlpin, 1016 Pakington, and Richard M. Ward, HMC Dockyard.

Smash-Grab Thieves Get Valuable Loot

Car, Watches In Night Haul

Night prowlers were busy in Victoria overnight. Loot ranged from watches to an automobile.

A patient thief carved through quarter-inch plate glass with a hard-edged cutting device at a Fort Street watchmaker's store sometime Friday night and made off with two men's wrist watches.

Gordon Pepper, proprietor of The Clock Shop, 1037 Fort, found police waiting for him when he arrived at his store this morning.

They were guarding a neat, round hole the size of a man's head, cut into the glass and pushed through with a stone.

The stone was lying on the sidewalk and two watches, valued at $50 and $25, were missing from his window display.

Mr. Pepper thinks the thief may have been disturbed before he could clean out the display. He left several watches of greater value. Both the watches and the window were insured.

"There has never been a thing like this happen before in the four years I have been here," Mr. Pepper said.

FIRST KEY, THEN CAR

Another glass-breaking thief made off with a green 1939 Ford coupe from Quality Auto Sales, 837 Yates Street, sometime before 1.30 a.m. this morning.

Police report a rear window was broken in the office and the keys removed before the car was taken.

Meanwhile auto strippers were busy elsewhere.

Hub caps and detachable white walls were taken from a car owned by Thomas Moore, 576 Dallas, while it was parked on Blanshard.

A juvenile was apprehended rifling a car glove compartment in a vehicle parked at B.C. Forest Products Ltd. He was taken to his home and his parents notified.

Sympathetic Court Gives Old Offender 18-Month Sentence

Eighteen months in jail faces Christopher L. Kiteley following his appearance before city police court Magistrate H. C. Hall, Friday, on a charge of breaking and entering.

The magistrate told the accused that "the probation officer and psychiatrist report you mean to make an effort this time to lead a straight and decent life. I'll make the penalty as light as I can."

Kiteley was convicted of entering a room in the St. James Hotel, Nov. 14, and removing a quantity of clothing valued at $100. It was later found by police in his room.

While on remand pending a probation officer's report, Kiteley was later involved in a case of wilful damage following the breaking of a skylight at the Lincoln Hotel.

COUNCIL AND COMMISSION SEATS MAY BE FILLED BY ACCLAMATION

City Hall political circles see a strong possibility of election by acclamation of an alderman for a one-year term and the single police commission nominee. Nominations close Dec. 2.

Donald Smith's resignation from council to run for the mayoralty opens the one-year vacancy, and Alderman Mrs. Margaret Christie, whose term expires, is so far the only candidate.

Police commissioner William Hamilton is the only candidate in the field for the police commission.

Austin Curtis Quits Victoria School Board

Changes Decision to Seek Seat On Council for 'Personal Reasons'

Veteran school trustee Austin Curtis has sent in his resignation as a member of the Greater Victoria School Board, it was learned today.

This move followed on the heels of an announcement by Mr. Curtis that he had changed his mind about running for city council. He had announced his intention to try for a council seat only Friday.

Mr. Curtis said his new course of action was due to "personal reasons" and offered no further comment.

School board chairman Richard Reeve said the resignation had come as a complete surprise to him.

Mr. Curtis has been a school trustee for 13 years. His current term expires at the end of 1954.

"It will be with considerable regret if we have to act on this," Mr. Reeve said, of the resignation request.

Mr. Curtis is general passenger agent in Victoria for the CNR.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—This newspaper clipping (enclosed) says it is claimed that this year the public will turn over to the CBC about $12,000,000 through the special 15 per cent excise tax on purchases of radio and television equipment. What for?—A.B.

A.—Formerly the main source of revenue of the CBC was the annual license fee for radio receiving sets. Parliament, at its last session, abolished radio receiver license fees and substituted a statutory provision under which the CBC would receive the proceeds of the excise tax on radio and television receiver sets. The chairman of the CBC, A. D. Dunt, informs the Times: "This source, together with a statutory annual grant for sound broadcasting, and its own commercial income, provide all the revenue for the maintenance of CBC operations, including the running of all its stations across Canada, the operating of the Trans-Canada and Dominion national networks, the French network, the operation of its television stations, with the program network service to these and to private television stations going into operation."

CHRISTMAS HOURS

Extra shopping hours in Victoria stores on the Saturday night before Christmas and on Wednesday, Dec. 23, are being considered.

Geoffrey Ellis, retail merchants' group chairman, told Chamber of Commerce directors Friday that the merchants would meet soon to discuss the question.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce president Jack Ledger has reported that 65 entries have already been obtained for the Christmas home-lighting campaign. He said it "looked like the best show yet."

The Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council yesterday passed a resolution commending St. Luke's players for their children's theatre production of Little Red Riding Hood. The P.T.A. body expressed the hope the group would undertake further productions.

A storm that sped across the Pacific only to become stalled between Cape Scott and the Queen Charlotte Islands will produce the same unsettled weather Sunday that the city endured today.

Rain will fall overnight and Sunday, the weatherman said, and winds will be from the east at 15 to 20 miles. Temperatures will range from 42 to 50 degrees.

A strong contingent of Victoria shooters will travel to Duncan Sunday to take part in the Duncan Elks' Gun Club annual Christmas ham and turkey trap shoot. Shooting will start at 10 a.m. Lunch will be available at the clubhouse.

A committee of Royal Oak residents has been formed to promote a benefit dance and card party Dec. 12 to raise funds to assist certain families in the district hit by polio.

The dance will be held in the auditorium of Royal Oak High School. A floor show will be staged and refreshments served. Polio this year struck 10 persons in the Royal Oak district. Some of these were left paralyzed.

Otto Wilner is chairman of the committee arranging the event.

All candidates in the Saanich municipal elections will be invited to give their platforms at a meeting to be held on Dec. 9, Reeve Joseph Casey announced today.

The time and place where the meeting will be held will be announced later. The meeting is expected to be held at the Mount View High School auditorium at 3 p.m.

Police are searching for a man who approached two youngsters, aged 9 and 10, Thursday night, made some indecent remarks, then took from them the Christmas cards they had been "bling."

The boys said the man stopped them on Cecilia Street. They thought he was about 24.

They had been selling the cards as a Scout and Wolf Cub activity.

The board of cemetery trustees for Royal Oak Burial Park has asked the City Council to approve the purchase of 4.47 acres adjoining the present cemetery boundary. The land, which faces East Saanich Road, is owned by George Rudd and can be bought for $2,000.

Saanich MLA John Tisdalle entered St. Joseph's Hospital on Thursday for a major operation. He expects to be out in time for Christmas.

A meeting of the Victoria Touchdown Club will be held in the Pacific Club Sunday night at 8.

Organized last Tuesday in aid of the B.C. Lions' Canadian football club, the group has called the meeting for the purpose of completing plans for the sale of tickets for 1954 games in Vancouver.

By LANCE WHITTAKER

Out of Vancouver today comes a story by Eros Pasutti of the Canadian Press on the mission ship Columbia II, well-known to all Anglican people here and beloved by hundreds of people in the 225 isolated communities she serves on this coast.

The sturdy 100-foot diesel-driven ship plies from Cape Scott at the northern tip of Vancouver Island to Stuart Island. Her skipper is 70-year-old Capt. George A. MacDonald of Vancouver and her chaplain, Canon Heber Greene, seen in the accompanying photograph.

The ship is one of four operated by the Columbia Coast Mission of the Church of England in Canada.

Writer Pasutti tells her story: In the tiny chapel, there have been weddings, christenings, confirmations, and funeral services.

"We handle hatches, matches and dispatches," says a crew member.

Many mercy missions are undertaken by the 48-year-old Columbia. Last year she logged 31 emergency calls for sickness and accident cases.

"Calling the Columbia" is a frequent call over the ship's radio-telephone, coming from the coastal districts dotting the rocky island shoreline.

She takes nine six-week cruises a year, and only once has she suffered a mishap. In 1948 she piled onto a reef in Warner Bay and was laid up some weeks for repairs.

Master Has 17 Years' Service

Capt. MacDonald has been with the Columbia for 17 years. With him he has engineer Bob McCrea, Jack Owens as cook, and Bob Anderson, deckhand.

Off the main deck is a two-bed hospital equipped with examination table, dental chair, drugs and surgical instruments. Only minor operations are performed. Serious cases are taken to hospital at Alert Bay, the Columbia's home port, 225 miles northwest of Vancouver.

There are recreational comforts, too. There is a reading room, much used by lonely settlers, and a movie theatre, where various films are shown during visits to up-coast ports.

"We feel we cover the whole life of the people," said Canon Alan Greene, superintendent of the mission and brother of the Columbia's chaplain.

First Boat Launched in 1905

The first mission boat was launched by Rev. John Antle in 1905, when Columbia Coast Mission was founded. It voyaged for many years along the coast, was replaced by the Columbia II. The old and expensive Columbia II, too, may be replaced, this time by a smaller vessel.

Of the 13,250 miles covered by the Columbia in 1952, 1,295 miles were logged on emergency calls. She made a total of 1,047 calls, during which 807 cases were treated. Her sister ships, the John Antle, the Rendevous and the Veracity, traveled 6,000, 5,383 and 476 miles, respectively. These vessels are confined to mission work only.

Such coverage entails an annual expenditure of $75,000, most of which is incurred by the Columbia. The Community Chest of Greater Vancouver bears the major part of the ship's operating expenses, with the provincial and federal governments contributing small grants. The balance is provided through church contributions and private donations.

In November

Leaves are gone from the trees, baring the graceful outlines of branches etched blackly against the sky. . . . There's crispness in the air . . . and riding takes on that exciting quality beloved by all who enjoy the outdoors.

Women

Outdoor ring at Victoria Riding and Hunt Club, Cedar Hill Crossroad, is where this group of women equestrians take lessons from Don Carley, instructor at the club. Here they walk their horses to get them into perfect formation for a canter. Some use western saddles and others the English saddle. All listen carefully as Mr. Carley quietly helps them to become good riders. Every woman in the group believes that riding is the finest way of spending an afternoon.

From the left, Mrs. Sidney Love up on "Freckles," Miss Valdena Rafnkjellson on "Samelon," Mrs. F. Drysdale on "Cricket," Mrs. Mary Kelson up on "Shino," Mrs. Mary Somerville on "Terry Tel" and Miss Mary Griffin on "Laddy." These riders will tell you that "even the horses seem to look forward to canters twice weekly."

Women Learn To Ride

It was three years ago that a group of Victoria women decided to take up riding for exercise and for fun. Some had never ridden before . . . others had not ridden since childhood. They have enjoyed the experiences so much they still ride regularly, Tuesday and Friday, and have such a good time they wouldn't "miss it for anything." Included in their program are breakfast and supper rides, as well as canter along bridle paths in Gordon Head.

Always riding on Tuesdays with the group are, left to right, Miss Peter Williams, mounted on "Stranger"; Mrs. A. J. Warren on "Magic"; Mrs. P. J. Ferguson up on "Fidler" and Miss Stella Clayton who rides on "Allegro."

Starting with three friends who decided to take "time out" from their every-day work to learn to ride, this group of women who all love the outdoors has grown in the course of three years to 19 riders. And it is a rare occasion when the whole group do not turn out for their twice-weekly lessons and the canter along the bridle paths that always follows.

Mrs. Don Carley, right, always rides with the group. With her are, left to right, Mrs. Stuart Davidson on "Lucky," Mrs. Mary D. Frenzle up on "Duke," and Miss Maybelle Lawrence on "Laddie." Mrs. Carley's mount is named "Omar."

Shirley Thomas Trained Horses Since Youth

AYLMER, Que. (CP)—Blonde Shirley Thomas, at 18 Canada's top woman rider in jumping competition, has been training horses to do her bidding since soon after she could walk.

"And that's what counts," says the five-foot-four-inch girl, one of the star riders of four countries at the Royal Winter Fair.

"You and your horses have to work together as a unit."

The rise to international recognition has been sudden for the girl from this Quebec town near Ottawa who until three months ago was little known as a horsewoman outside Ontario and her native province.

Early last summer she had been jumping four and five hours a day on her father's 52-acre estate near here. She coaxed her Palamino Princess Midas over jumps she had especially built in preparation for Canadian National Exhibition competition early in the fall. There she was chosen first woman ever to ride on Canada's four-member international equestrian team.

When in New York with the team earlier this month, the 135-pound girl entered single competition and defeated 10 men and Pat Smythe, Britain's best equestrienne.

Her latest triumph came on a horse she had trained only six weeks. Riding her new grey White Sable at the Royal Winter Fair, she defeated riders of Britain, Ireland, and the United States, as well as her own teammates, to win the international individual event. Hers was the only faultless performance.

Shirley got her first pony as a child of four. At 4½, she rode in her first show. At seven her father, Charles T. Thomas, formerly of Calgary and now owner of an Ottawa cosmetics firm, gave her a silver-trimmed saddle.

Nowadays Shirley and her mother ride side by side on the estate in daily workouts. In their home are scores of trophies Shirley has won.

Shirley plans to ride in other North American shows, but she's not raising her sights to the Olympics.

"It's too strenuous for women," she says.

Trio who organized the group, the "Originals," as they are called by the others, are, left to right, Miss Hyldah Pottinger on "Patches," Miss Rachel Bogart up on "Cainnomox" and Miss Tannis Sherlock on "Carnival." It was their enthusiasm that brought others into this unofficial riding club and kept them interested. Three members of the group, out of town when the pictures were taken, are Miss Helen Nichol, Miss Brownie Marshall and Mrs. J. T. Clarke.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Try It and Agree With Me—
The New Teamaker's Tops!

By PENNY SAVER

I beg to differ! You can't tell me that an old-fashioned brown Betty is the only pot that makes a tasty cup of tea! Not after being introduced to the modern teamaker, you can't!

It arrived in Victoria just this week, according to a local salesman who gave me a tip on it. He tells me that Canada's highest paid tea-taster would recommend it to the most particular of tea-grannies.

Shaped rather like an Aladdin's lamp, I thought, the teamaker is made of heat-resistant glass with hinged lid and deep collar of polished stainless steel. Handles and knob are of black bakelite.

You put your tea leaves (or bags) into the stainless steel infusion basket which is perforated with 4,000 holes. Pour boiling water over and let steep for three minutes. Then lift out the basket and pour the brew of perfection! Don't be reluctant about touching the little handle... you'll find it stays surprisingly cool!

Is there a pessimist shaking his head? He'll not believe me, but I speak truthfully when I say that the steel basket imparts no astringent flavor as many metals do.

The little honey with the non-drip spout sells for $11.95. There's a de luxe, insulation model at $24 if you're wanting to give a truly snazzy Christmas gift.

To make tea in a jiffy, you really need an electric kettle. do you not? (Another good Christmas gift suggestion, by the way.) You can get your considerably reduced this week. One Victoria store is selling a well known and highly-regarded make at $11.89. The same kettle sells at $14.95, ordinarily. Good buy!

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Sleep, Better Health Rules
May Help Ease Worries

Feeling blue? Feeling tired? How long has this been going on? It is smart to look for the cause when we find ourselves in a state of long-term depression or fatigue. Often these go together because fatigue can cause us to be depressed while negative thoughts and emotions can make us extremely tired.

Try to discover from which source your trouble comes. In either event the adoption of a daily routine which will build health to a higher level and the control of unhappy thoughts, will soon banish the dullness which worry and weariness make of life.

Enough sleep, enough rest, the correct weight, some exercise, some relaxation, some fun, and an adequate diet, will improve the situation unbelievably.

Try to solve any problems

Afghan Presented to Aged Men's Home

Members of the Ninth Victoria East Girl Guide Company visited Aged Men's Home Friday afternoon to present an afghan they had knitted as their Coronation tribute. Ten of the girls knitted strips six inches wide and four feet long and they were joined together to make the warm completed piece. Each girl used odd bits of wool of every imaginable color from her own home or from contributions of friends. It took nearly four months to complete. Girl Guides throughout the Commonwealth gave tribute to the Queen by some act of service in their communities. Here, the guides present the afghan to William Fowler, who accepted it on behalf of the Home.

AS WE LIVE

How to Hold a Job
When You're Over 50

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

When men and women reach their fifties, they find it very hard to get work. What can a person do under such conditions is the question asked by the woman who writes:

(Q) "I am 53 years old and have raised three children with the help of the welfare and city. My dead husband was always sick. I have worked all my life but now, they tell me I'm too old. I don't look my age and I always keep myself neat and clean. When they get short of work, they always lay off the old girls. What must we do when we are fifty, die out or kill ourselves?"

(A) You are not too old to hold down a job at 50 or even at 60, but most business organizations today will not give you a chance to prove it.

The best place to try to get a job is where there is no compulsory age limit or retirement rule. That means a small organization or working for a family or small business. Have you tried getting such a job?

The reason that it is hard for older people to get work in big organizations is they grow older is partly the compulsory old-age insurance they carry and partly the fact that the work is planned for a certain speed of output. Older people rarely can keep up to the speed of younger people and, hence, slow down the work of the whole organization.

In some places, there is the feeling that older people cannot or will not learn new methods of doing things and this makes it hard for the other workers who have been trained to use the most modern methods.

Naturally you want to work and be independent of the help of your children. You can do this if you make use of the skills you learned in your homemaking. You can cook, clean, take care of the sick, and launder. Surely you can get work with a private family, a hospital, a small restaurant, or some small laundry or bakery.

Peggy Woodhouse Is Married in Candlelit Ceremony at First United

The soft glow of candlelight in First United Church, last evening, created a romantic setting for the ceremony which united Margaret (Peggy) Joan Woodhouse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Leonard Woodhouse, 3040 Uplands Road, with Samuel Speese, son of Mr. Samuel Speese, Tucson, Ariz., and the late Mr. Speese.

Strands of ivy mingled with white chrysanthemums in baskets which decorated the church. Flowers were marked with clusters of the same leaves and flowers. Rev. M. A. J. Waters heard the couple's vows.

During signing of the register, J. Roberto Wood sang "The Lord's Prayer." Organ music was provided by Mrs. Wood. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a gown fashioned with fitted bodice of rose-point lace. A deep peplum of the lace was edged with hand-clipped scallops. The off-shoulder neckline and upper sleeve were accented by a wide border of pleated tulle, and the bouffant skirt of accordion pleated tulle over taffeta, flared into a graceful train.

Her fingertip veil of French illusion was held in place by a half-bonnet of tulle and lace, trimmed with clusters of white lilies. She carried a cascading bouquet of gardenias, stephanotis and lily.

Bridal attendants wore identically-styled gowns of iridescent taffeta, featuring wide V-necklines, tiny cap sleeves and skirts styled with sheath-like panels in front and circular fullness with semi-train at back. Gowns of Mrs. Robert Davies and Miss Margaret Woodcock were of peacock blue. Miss Bette LeMotte and Miss Joan Chaloner chose an American Beauty shade. All carried crescent bouquets of pale pink and deep rose carnations with ivy and were matching floral head-dresses.

Donald Woodhouse, brother of the bride, was best man. The ushers were Frank Scroggs, Dr. Douglas Adams and Robert Ostler, a cousin of the bride. Mrs. Woodhouse, wearing a full-length gown of light blue corded taffeta with lace bodice, oyster-white fur felt hat touched with rhinestones and corsage of feathered white carnations, received guests at the reception at Oak Bay Beach Hotel. Archie Gibbs proposed the toast to the bride.

Encircled with tulle and flanked by silver candelabra, the three-tier wedding cake centred the lace-covered bridal table. Mrs. Speese chose a traveling suit of Fortmann wool in Oxford grey, topped with a winter white coat with jewelled collar. She wore red accessories and a corsage of baby white orchids.

After a honeymoon in Washington, Oregon and California, Mr. and Mrs. Speese will live in Tucson, Ariz.

Fair-haired Marjorie Violet Hallmark, groomed in exquisite white lace and net over taffeta, exchanged wedding promises with Charles Leonard Horne last evening in Metropolitan United Church.

The full-skirted bridal gown was fashioned of the net over taffeta in ballerina length. The strapless bodice featured a lace yoke. A short jacket of the lace, styled with Elizabethan collar and three-quarter length sleeves, was drawn together by a rhinestone brooch belonging to the bride's mother. The bride wore matching rhinestone earrings and a gold watch, gift of the groom. A coronet held her chapel veil of illusion net and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and white carnations.

Dr. F. E. H. James performed the ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnson, 739 Kings Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Horne, Colwood. Traditional wedding music was played by organist, Charles Palmer.

The church was decorated with baskets of white, yellow and mauve chrysanthemums and small nosegays of the same flowers with white satin bows marked the pews. Mr. Johnson gave the bride in marriage.

Mrs. Shirley Anderson, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing a waist-length gown of rose taffeta. It was styled with full skirt, strapless bodice and dainty jacket. She carried a bouquet of yellow carnations and wore a matching floral bandeau in her hair.

Bridesmaid, Miss Shirley Kelsall, was groomed identically in

TELEVISION GLARE

The light emitted from a television screen is much like that of a fluorescent lamp. Thus when viewing the television program in a darkened room, the result is an adjustment by the central part of the eye for brightness and an adjustment by the peripheral areas of the eye for darkness. This adaptation to two extremes of brightness results in the sensation of being "blinded" when looking away from the screen and in many cases results in real discomfort.

To avoid this, provide sufficient illumination of the wall behind the set, over an area equal in diameter to a little more than half of the viewing distance or provide moderate illumination in the entire room. If the glare still bothers your eyes, they should be thoroughly examined, for some people are sensitive to this type of light and need lenses that will absorb and reduce the brightness contrast.

King's Daughters and Sons Meet on Mainland Next Year

At recent meeting of representatives of King's Daughters and Sons' groups in British Columbia, held at the Strathcona Hotel, plans were discussed for the national convention in Olivet Church, New Westminster, next June 17 to 19, and the international convention, June 20 to 24, in Georgia Hotel, Vancouver.

Provincial president Mrs. F. P. Belyea announced that the international president, Mrs. Louis M. Richardson, Indiana, will preside at the international convention.

The Order of King's Daughters and Sons is primarily a religious one, with its aim to develop spiritual life and stimulate Christian activities.

British Columbia order was introduced into Canada by Mrs. P. Maitland McDougal, who came to Cowichan, V.I., from the State of Georgia, where she had been an active member. She organized a group called the Scattered Circle in 1888 composed of her neighbors. Later, as the order grew it was organized on a provincial level, with Mrs. McDougal as president. She was instrumental in starting the King's Daughters' Hospital at Duncan, V.I., as a convalescent home with six beds and later as the district expanded and the home could no longer fill the growing need, it was turned over to the Cowichan District Hospital Association with the stipulation that the name be retained.

In Vancouver, the King's Daughters' "Resthome" was started, where a number of elderly women are cared for in pleasant surroundings. New Westminster has centred its work around the women's ward in the Royal Columbian Hospital, while Cloverdale and Surrey have given support to community projects in those districts.

In Victoria, until August, 1952, the order ran a business girls' lunch room which was started in 1913, some of the members giving voluntary help for many years. The present local project is the furnishing of a room in the new Victoria Nursing Home. Funds for the order's activities are raised by bazaars, teas, luncheons, rummage sales.

Young Kelowna Girl Held, Beaten by Boys

KELOWNA (CP)—Police today were seeking the assailants of 10-year-old Joan McIntosh, discovered semi-conscious by her father in the city basketball stadium.

Police said the girl, although incoherent, indicated that a boy held her while another kicked her, then beat her head against a rock.

The farm industry at present is exempt from the insurance scheme.

Chief Justice Gordon McGowan, chairman of a Royal Commission which investigated the Workmen's Compensation Act, recommended in 1951 that the insurance scheme be extended to all farm labor.

Charles E. Walls, secretary of the federation, told the delegates to consider the resolution as they do in other industries.

A committee will be appointed by the federation to study plans towards establishment of a fixed formula for setting milk prices to producers.

Such a formula would be based on feed costs and the cost-of-living index. The producers' price would fluctuate as these factors varied.

The use of a formula, dairy-men feel, would eliminate the B.C. Milk Board hearings on price changes.

Between the federation's executive and Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Farm Group Records Opposition To Workmen's Compensation Act

Farmers of British Columbia Friday went on record as being against the extension of compulsory workmen's compensation to include farm labor.

A resolution endorsed by some 150 farmers attending the B.C. Federation of Agriculture at the Empress Hotel stated the federation will oppose any move by the provincial government to make workmen's compensation compulsory for farm help.

The farm industry at present is exempt from the insurance scheme.

Chief Justice Gordon McGowan, chairman of a Royal Commission which investigated the Workmen's Compensation Act, recommended in 1951 that the insurance scheme be extended to all farm labor.

Charles E. Walls, secretary of the federation, told the delegates to consider the resolution as they do in other industries.

Surplus Hits $266 Million As Expenditures Slashed

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government's 1953-54 budgetary surplus rose by $65,863,000 to $266,024,000 during October, as monthly expenditures took a sudden drop.

However, officials said Friday the government will have no more than a balanced budget by the time the fiscal year ends next March 31.

They observed that the surplus is about $22,000,000 below the $287,932,000 for the first seven months of the 1952-53 fiscal year, which ended with a surplus of only $24,000,000.

The finance department, in its monthly treasury statement, attributed October's drop in spending to a shift in tax rental payments to Ontario.

Ontario signed the rental agreement on October 29, 1952, and received two quarterly payments totaling $61,700,000. This year the regular quarterly payments were paid in June and September.

Defense spending also declined during October by $15,000,000, mainly due to smaller army and mutual aid payments.

The monthly surplus of $65,863,000 compared with a deficit of $3,035,000 in October last year.

Revenues for October, this year, slipped by more than $2,000,000 to $362,404,000, from $364,410,000 a year ago, but the seven-month total of $2,451,021,000 was still higher than the $2,364,711,000 last year.

Personal income tax collections declined during the month to $109,457,000 from $113,432,000, but the seven-month total was up to $726,486,000 from $704,370,000.

October's expenditures declined by $71,100,000 to $266,024,000 from $367,645,000, but the seven-month total was higher at $2,184,997,000 compared to $2,076,779,000.

VETERAN COAST SHIPMASTER, CAPT. H. C. ANDERSON RETIRES

Sea-going career of Capt. H. C. Anderson, veteran B.C. Coast Service shipmaster, ended this week when he stepped off the bridge of Ss. Princess Elizabeth in Vancouver.

His retirement from the service takes place officially Jan. 31, after 27 years with the CPR. Capt. Anderson began his life at sea 48 years ago, in Norway, and since then has circumnavigated the world a dozen times.

He has had command of every ship in the CPR coast fleet, with the exception of Ss. Princess Elaine.

Korean Gets $100,000 For Surrendering MIG

TOKYO (UP)—Lieut. No Kum Sok, the North Korean pilot who surrendered a MIG to the Allies in September, could be rated today as one of the wealthiest men in war-torn Korea.

The air force disclosed that it had handed Lieut. Sok a cheque for $100,000 Wednesday in accordance with the offer made by former Far East commander Gen. Mark W. Clark.

The air force said the cheque was presented to Lieut. Sok on Okinawa where the MIG-15 has been undergoing tests since it was delivered to Kimp'o airport, Korea, September 21.

Lieut. Sok's $100,000 will be placed in a trust fund, reportedly with a California firm, while he studies engineering in the United States.

Part of the money has already been spent for the support of his mother in South Korea, in advances by the air force.

In addition to the trust fund, Lieut. Sok now has a job with the U.S. Air Force on Okinawa as a research specialist—a job his co-workers say he is well qualified for.

The air force said he will remain on Okinawa "for several months" to perfect his English before going to the United States to study.

The Russian-built MIG is being held for return to its rightful owner, the air force said. However, the owner, either the North Korean or Soviet Russian air forces, has not claimed it.

Italian Mother's Baby Delivered in Canadian Embassy

ROME (CP)—A baby boy was born in the Canadian embassy here Friday but officials were reluctant to say whether that made him a Canadian citizen.

Amelie Stochetti Feola, 31, cried out and fell to the floor in the embassy's visa division.

She was hurried to a couch in an adjoining room and embassy doctors were called. A little later, cries of a new-born baby were heard and anxiously waiting Italians cheered.

The mother, wife of Federico Feola, had come here from Caserta province for a visa to Canada.

Kiernan Denies Farm Products Demand Decline

Consumption Gains After Slump, Claim

Agriculture Minister Kenneth Kiernan Friday described the agricultural picture in British Columbia as not too gloomy, but warned farmers they will have to watch production costs which have been rising in the past year.

The minister, speaking to the concluding session of the annual convention of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture at the Empress Hotel, said the domestic market expectations are favorable and farmers had no reason to fear a decline in the demand for farm products.

He also noted that the per capita food consumption is increasing following a decline from 1946 to 1952.

Canadian trade with United Kingdom, he added, is also expected to improve within the next year due to better dollar reserves in Britain.

Farmers were assured by Mr. Kiernan that the provincial government is in favor of marketing legislation to assist in the sale and distribution of farm products.

"The provincial government must make good use of marketing legislation to see that returns to agricultural producers are not forced down to a point where there is no longer an incentive to produce," he said.

The minister's address was mainly confined to the talks he had recently at an Ottawa meeting with provincial and agricultural officials.

Soroptimist Fund Now Totals $6,277 To Fight Area TB

Nearly 4,000 replies have been received to 18,600 letters sent out in the Victoria Soroptimist Club appeal on behalf of the B.C. Tuberculosis Society, the club announced today.

To date $6,277 has been collected towards the $16,000 objective, which was the amount brought in last year.

The drive, which started earlier this month, will end January 31.

Last year in the Greater Victoria area there were 1,275 cases of tuberculosis.

Interior IWA, Operators To Meet Monday

Another Move To End Strike

PENTICTON (BUP)—Initial negotiations to end a month-long lumber strike in southern interior British Columbia will open Monday, union officials announced today.

More than half the woodworkers in the East Kootenay and Nelson districts have been idled in the dispute between the International Woodworkers of America and the Southern Interior Lumber Manufacturers' Association.

The walkout of nearly 5,000 men in the northern half of the province continued, meanwhile, with no settlement in sight.

IWA district No. 1 president K. E. Morris turned down an operators' request that the union's negotiating committee be augmented by active southern interior IWA members of shop steward ranking.

The union agreed, however, to another request that the meeting be held in the interior for negotiations to lead to renewal of the master contract which expired August 31.

The SILMA request followed on the heels of a meeting at Victoria with officials of the association, union and government.

No Drop in Navy Personnel When Supply School Moves

By VICTOR MACKIE

Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — Naval supply school installations at Esquimalt are to be utilized by the Royal Canadian Navy, with the result there will be no decrease in activity or personnel following the transfer of the supply depot to Montreal, it was learned here Friday.

A construction project is scheduled by the navy for Esquimalt, but details of that project cannot be disclosed at this stage, naval authorities said.

Dr. Frank Fairey told the Victoria Daily Times that he had been advised of the decision to transfer the training of supply personnel from Esquimalt to Montreal.

The reasons given for the move are that it is more efficient to train the personnel at the central depot in Montreal. Secondly, there are more enlistments into the navy in Eastern Canada than at the West Coast and, thirdly, the navy "requires the space" now occupied by the navy supply school at Esquimalt.

"I have been given definite assurance that in the overall picture there will be no reduction in personnel at Esquimalt and no decrease in naval activity there," Dr. Fairey said.

45,000 Koreans Homeless After Pusan Holocaust

New Blazes Today
Quickly Extinguished

PUSAN, Korea (UP)—Three more fires broke out in this refugee-jammed city today less than 24 hours after a wind-swept blaze gutted the heart of the city and left 45,000 homeless.

South Korean firefighting teams, on the alert after the worst fire in Korea's history, went into action quickly and had the new blazes under control within an hour.

Meanwhile, Allied authorities made emergency arrangements today to house and feed 45,000 Koreans left homeless by a 10-hour, $26,000,000 fire which was started by a family quarrel.

An American soldier and three Koreans were killed and 44 persons injured by the blaze that burned a mile-wide swath through Pusan Friday night and early today—the worst fire in Korea's history. The flames leveled 6,020 buildings, including the U.S. army's rear-area headquarters, an army chapel and 5,000 homes. Terrified refugees, temporarily evacuated to Yong Island, filtered back into the city today to see what they could salvage from the ashes of their homes.

The U.S. army's Korean civil assistance command made arrangements to house some 23,000 of the refugees in a former prison camp outside the city, and provided tents as temporary shelter for many others.

Mayor Sohn Tong Soo said the fire started when a Korean couple, squabbling over some family problem, knocked a kerosene lantern to the straw-littered floor of their home.

B.C. Toll Authority May Get Gunderson

Finance Minister Einar Gunderson has been appointed to B.C.'s new toll highway and bridge authority. It was reliably reported today.

Mr. Gunderson himself declined to confirm or deny the report, but it is understood the appointment was made by order-in-council at a cabinet meeting Friday.

The appointment immediately developed new speculation as to the future of Mr. Gunderson who was defeated in the Victoria by-election by Liberal George F. Gregory.

Cabinet sources indicated a few weeks ago the toll authority would be made up of cabinet ministers. The cabinet has power to set the salary for the

These sources said no serious rift exists. Rather, they insisted, both Britain and the United States agree that the new Russian note calling for a Big Four conference in Berlin, on Germany, reflects no basic change in Soviet policy.

But the acceptance by Russia of the western invitation to such a conference, sources here said, does indicate a change in Russian tactics to the extent that they dropped unacceptable prior conditions that previously had blocked the way to a meeting.

For this reason, British leaders believe it is advisable to take up the Kremlin's offer immediately, before the Soviet leaders change their minds again.

BRITISH READY

The British government is ready, in principle, to hold the meeting with the Soviets and is even willing to go to Berlin, although it believes Switzerland would have been a better setting for such a conference. But officials here have many doubts as the Americans of whether the conference, if it comes about, will lead anywhere.

They fear Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov will immediately try to entangle the western ministers in protracted negotiations on the agenda.

CHURCHILL READY

LONDON (UP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill will go to Bermuda next week still hopeful that a top-level Big Four meeting can be arranged some time next year, it was reported today.

The Foreign Office said Sir Frank Roberts, a deputy under-secretary, will replace Sir John P. F. Hancock, on Prime Minister Churchill's team for the talks with President Eisenhower and Premier Laniel Friday.

Roberts has been Britain's chief representative at three-power meetings of experts this year. He helped draft the Western notes to Russia in the current exchanges.

His inclusion in the British delegation clearly indicates Russia's agreement Thursday to a four-power foreign ministers' conference will be a top item on the Bermuda agenda.

SHADE OF RALEIGH!

Negro Lays Coat In Path of Queen

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—A middle-aged Negro threw consternation into the entourage of Queen Elizabeth II Friday when he spread his coat on the ground and shouted, "step upon my coat Your Majesty."

A man in military uniform struck at the negro with his sword and a policeman grabbed him. He was booked by police for investigation. Police said he might be deranged. He gave the name of Warren Kidd.

The Queen, taken by surprise, jumped back. She then walked to one side to avoid stepping on the coat.

This occurred just before the Queen embarked at Port Royal, outside Kingston, for Panama. Wally Davis, photographer for The Miami Daily News, witnessed it from a balcony just above the Queen.

"The guy was doing a Sir Walter Raleigh as the Queen walked along and approached a slightly wet spot on the pavement of the military drill ground," Davis said.

HONORS CONFERRED

The Queen conferred honors on various persons, ranging from the colonial governor to a chauffeur, before leaving Jamaica Friday to continue her globe-girdling tour.

The Queen made Governor Sir Hugh Foot a knight commander of the Royal Victorian Order. Colonial Secretary Colville Deverell and Police Commissioner Reginald Michell were dubbed commanders of the same order, and the governor's private secretary, Miss Cora St. Aubyn, a member of the Royal Victorian Order.

A policeman who was in charge of a traffic squad during the Queen's three-day visit, and the chauffeur of the monarch's automobile received Royal Victorian medals, while the housekeeper of King's House where the Queen stayed received a gold brooch.

The Queen and her entourage sailed today toward the Panama Canal aboard the British liner Gothic. The royal party is due in the canal zone Sunday as guests of the United States and Panama.

Drowned Tot's Death Traced to Blows by Club

VANCOUVER (CP)—A four-year-old girl, drowned in a swollen ditch Thursday, was struck repeatedly on the head with a club, an autopsy showed Friday.

Police said the girl, Anne Mawdsley, apparently was hit by another child.

The blows were so heavy that any one of them would have rendered her unconscious, police said. Then the girl fell into the ditch and was drowned.

The girl's body was discovered by her father, Gordon K. Mawdsley. Her assailant was unknown.

GOVERNMENT FIRM ABOUT GOUZENKO

Pearson Reiterates Determination;
House Expected to Approve Govt. Moves

OTTAWA (BUP)—United States Senate spy investigators today faced a firm government decision that any questioning of former Soviet cipher clerk, Igor Gouzenko, will be under Canadian "ground rules."

External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson made that clear Friday night in a CBC "Press Conference" program that was televised in Canada and broadcast in both countries.

But whatever Sen. William Jenner's internal security subcommittee decides to do, he said, the mutual respect between the two nations was "too deep to be even weakened" by such an incident.

The "incident" started after Gouzenko was reported willing to talk to American investigators because he felt he could give them valuable "advice" on uncovering Soviet spies.

THREE CONDITIONS

The Jenner committee asked twice to be permitted to interview the former Soviet clerk who fled the embassy here in 1945 with information that led to the smashing of a Soviet atomic spy ring. In diplomatic notes, Canada side-tracked the first request and granted the second under these conditions:

1. U.S. representatives must meet Gouzenko in Canada under Canadian auspices.
2. The meeting must be secret.
3. Canada must agree to publication of any information obtained at the interview.

Jenner objected to the last of the rules on the ground it should be permissible to communicate to Congress any information affecting the United States alone.

In a letter to U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, he asked that his position be made known to Canada. Although it had not been transmitted through diplomatic channels when Pearson spoke, the external affairs minister made it clear he was familiar with news reports of Jenner's feelings.

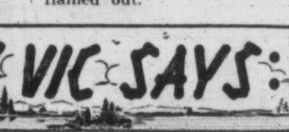

Pearson said a diplomatic note on the matter would be given the usual study, but he made it clear that Canada's stand on the matter of publicity would not be changed.

Parliament is expected Monday to endorse Mr. Pearson's viewpoint.

Jet Flier's Bravery
Wins Queen's Award

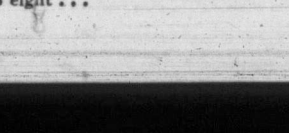

OTTAWA (BUP)—A navy flier has been commended by the Queen for two difficult emergency landings of a British-built jet plane after its engine conked out on a ferry flight.

Lieut. Alan J. Woods, 31, a native of Los Angeles, Calif., who now is listed as a Vancouver resident, twice glided the British "Attacker" jet 60 miles to airfields after the engine "flamed out."

Playwright Dies

Eugene O'Neill, famous American playwright, died Friday night in Boston at 65. (See story page 2).

Sizzling Finish Marks Classic; Score 12-6

SCORE BY QUARTERS

	1st	2nd	3rd	4th
Winnipeg	0	0	6	0
Hamilton	6	0	6	0

TORONTO (CP)—Hamilton Tiger-Cats fought off a desperate Winnipeg drive in the last minutes of the game to defeat the Blue Bombers 12-6 and win the Grey Cup before a tense sell-out 27,500 crowd today.

With the clock ticking off the last seconds of a spine-tingling battle, Blue Bombers marched down field from their own 18 on the strong right arm of Indian Jack Jacobs and seemed likely to tie the score.

They were on the Tiger-Cats four-yard line when Jacobs' pass was dropped by Tom Casey at the one-yard line. A pile of Tiger-Cat players jumped on the loose ball almost at the goal-line as the gun went to end the game.

JAMES SCORES

It was a last frantic bid by the Bombers who fought an uphill battle after quarter Ed Songin of the Tiger-Cats went over for a first-quarter touchdown. Tiger-Cats held onto that lead until near the end of the third quarter when young Jerry James crashed over from the Hamilton one-yard line. Bud Korhak converted to tie the score and it was a new ball game.

Tiger-Cats struck right back and marched 91 yards for the winning touchdown, scored by Vito Ragazza on a pass from Songin. Tip Logan kicked his 82nd consecutive convert.

It was sweet revenge for the eastern Big Four champion club that lost to a Winnipeg Blue Bomber team in 1935. That victory 18 years ago was the first time a western Canada champion had come east to take the prized trophy and today was the first time since then that a Hamilton Big Four team had made the East-West final.

JACOBS STARS

Blue Bombers, sparked by the passing of Jacobs, had Tiger-Cats reeling in the dying moments.

The big Indian, the goat of the 1950 cup classic when Bombers lost 13-0 to Toronto Argonauts in the mud, reared back to fire pass strikes to his ends. They came close but on the last play, with Bombers on the Hamilton four, Jacobs' hard pass was too much for Casey to hold. The game was played under ideal weather conditions.

SUMMARY

First quarter — 1. Hamilton, touchdown (Songin); 2. Hamilton, convert (Logan).
Second quarter — Scoring: None.

Third quarter — 3. Winnipeg, touchdown (James); 4. Winnipeg, convert (Korhak); 5. Hamilton, touchdown (Ragazza); 6. Hamilton, convert (Logan).
Fourth quarter — Scoring: None.

Formosa Legislature

Cheers Rhee Speech

TAIPEI, Formosa (UP)—South Korean President Syngman Rhee told a wildly cheering Nationalist China legislature today that all anti-Communist nations in southeast Asia should "put up a united front" for the security of the entire area.

Rhee flew here unexpectedly from Seoul Friday for top level discussions with Nationalist leader Chiang Kai-Shek. He addressed 1,000 members of the National Assembly at the Taipei city hall.

Half an hour before the kick-off some tickets were being sold by scalpers at $30 to $40 apiece. One man frantically waved a $20 bill but couldn't get a ticket. But a well-dressed man sold two tickets on the 30-yard line at $6 each—the box-office price. "I'm no scalper," he said.

Two officials, umpire Harry Bowden of Toronto and judge-of-play Tommy Daley of Ottawa, inspected the field an hour before game time. "Just about perfect," said Daley. "It's just soft enough for good football."

Three Tiger-Cat fans outside the stadium had probably the most novel costume seen at a Grey Cup game since the hoopla started in 1948. They were dressed in long, winter underware dyed yellow. On their backs were the names of Hamilton stars. They were happy-looking but really sad. They had no tickets.
